MOSCOW—The Red army was reported in war dispatches today to be pursuing German forces relentlessly on the south central front after counter-attacks smashed two enemy tank corps south of Bryansk and broke and took other enemy divisions in the suburbs of Kiev.

The dispatches, indicating one of the fiercest and perhaps most important conflicts of the war in progress between Kiev and Bryansk, reported that:

1. A great Russian drive against 12 German divisions centered at Trubchevsk, 60 miles southwest of Bryansk, smashed two enemy tank corps (an army corp is three divisions) and three infantry divisions, recaptured 26 villages and continued pursuit.

2. A Russian counter-blow climaxing a two-month battle for Kiev drove the enemy from heights in the suburbs and continued the attack, "allowing them no rest." These dispatches said four enemy divisions had been smashed in the two-months conflict around Kiev.

3 Scattered but ceaseless counter-attacks continued against the Germans on the Smolensk sector

Chileans Arrest 18 Prominent German Businessmen.

SANTIAGO, Chile —(INS)— Eighteen prominent German businessmen, including the manager of the German bank, have been arrested in Antofagasta, it was announced today.

The arrests were made after a series of raids. A search of the bank manager's home was said to have revealed three cases of arms and ammunition.

The Chilean chamber on Monday will consider a motion providing for the dissolution of all German organizations in Chile. This is the second in a series of raids made during the last few days against alleged Nazi sympathizers in Chile.

Hitler's Hand Forced—Will He Declare War on U. S.?

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
(United Press Foreign News Editor)

Adolf Hitler may be debating today whether to make a formal declaration of war against the United States.

The belief in high British circles that Hitler eventually might seek important psychological and military advantages by declaring war on the United States, if he were convinced that it is inevitable anyway, was no secret last spring when I was in London. The same view has been expressed privately by Berlin by authoritative German sources.

Now, President Roosevelt's seizure of the initiative by ordering American warships to shoot first at Axis submarines in defense of western hemisphere waters has resulted in a statement in Berlin that Hitler is compelled to take "appropriate" retaliatory measures.

These measures, it is emphasized significantly by the Nazis, will be "determined by us"—that is, by Hitler.

No military ruler ever faced a decision more certain to influence the future chapters of history. It is doubly significant for Hitler at a time when the Red army's resistance to his hitherto invincible legions is stirring trouble throughout German-occupied Europe and permitting time for the American industrial machine to be geared to war production.

And this decision—which Hitler wanted to postpone—has been forced closer by a series of fateful, perhaps unavoidable, events:

First, Mr. Roosevelt adopted totalitarian

Step Seen as Next Big Move Against Axis

Washington Sees Action as Supplement To 'Shoot First' Order After New Torpedoing of American Craft Carrying Lumber to Iceland.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—Battered by two U-boat attacks and an air assault in a raging storm, and just missing a fight with a German surface raider, the bulk of a British convoy in the Atlantic nevertheless reached port with the loss of but eight ships, the admiralty said today.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The arming of American merchant ships was described in authoritative quarters today as a step likely to be proposed by the administration, supplementing President Roosevelt's orders to the navy to shoot first at Axis warcraft in American defense waters.

Discussion of such a move intensified with news of the torpedoing of an American-owned freighter carrying lumber to Iceland—an attack which occurred Thursday morning but which was not announced until yesterday.

The arming of merchantmen was reported discussed briefly at a White House conference when President Roosevelt gave congressional leaders a preview of his Thursday night radio address. One legislator said he came away with the impression that it was only a matter of time until the suggestion would be put into effect.

Such a step, it was pointed out, would require congressional repeal—or at least revision—of the neutrality act, since that law specifically prohibits American commercial vessels from carrying other than small arms.

Another problem would be to obtain the necessay guns, in view of the demand for such weapons by the United States army and navy, and the British.

The latest reported attack on an American-owned vessel took place even before the president told the world that he had ordered the navy to defend shipping against "the rattlesnakes of the Atlantic"—Nazi submarines and raiders.

The state department said the navy had learned that the 1,700-ton freighter Montana, of Panamanian registry and with a foreign crew, had been torpedoed off the coast of Greenland.

An airplane—described as not an American aircraft—was reported to have seen the torpedoing and watched the 26-man crew take to lifeboats. The state department said all hands were believed safe.

Few details of the affair were released. Whether the torpedo attack sunk the vessel was undisclosed. Since the ship carried

One Vehicle With 4 Occupants Rolls Down Embankment on Route 13 Near Bellville.

Richland county deputies were trying today to unscramble a four-car collision last night on State Route 13, two miles north of Bellville, in which five persons were injured.

Four of the injured persons were occupants of an automobile which rolled down a 50-foot embankment. They escaped with only lacerations and bruises.

Deputy Sheriff Whitcomb said that he and other deputies had worked on the case until 3 a. m. today but that no clear explanation of the collision had been given as yet.

Piecing together stories of the occupants of three of the cars involved, Whitcomb said that a fourth car evidently caused the crash by pulling out of a long

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — WPA workers with farm experience in northern Ohio were under orders today to accept available harvesting jobs or lose their relief status, in efforts to beat a shortage of seasonal farm labor.

STATE ORDERS ALL GAMBLING FROM PREMISES

Officials In Mansfield Lodge Receive Order; Others to Get Similar Ones.

Gambling in private clubs holding liquor and beer permits was ordered eliminated today by the state liquor department which announced a state-wide drive to clear out all forms of gambling, including slot machines from establishments selling beer and liquor.

A number of Mansfield fraternal organizations and private clubs are known to be operating slot machines.

Officials of one Mansfield lodge said an order banning gambling devices had already been received. The order sets Oct. 1 as the deadline for removal of such equipment.

News dispatches from Columbus quoted Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor as saying that all enforcement officers have been instructed to "check closely" on violations of private club permits.

Taylor told agents that "no form or variety of gambling device or scheme or machine will be permitted and you may not deviate from these instructions, which apply to every type of permit holder without exception."

The Mansfield and other holders of the state's 947 private club permits were told in their letters from Taylor that they were responsible for numerous complaints from private citizens and holders of regular liquor and night club permits.

PLANE FOUND

Wreckage Hints Fate of Man Who Tried Ocean Crossing.

ST JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) —The weather-beaten wreckage of a tiny plane found in the wilderness of Newfoundland told today of the disaster which befell Thomas H Smith who set off for trans-Atlantic adventure in his "baby chipper" two years ago.

"Walking out to avoid freezing," said a note left in the plane by the Clarksburg, W. Va., flier, who took off from Old Orchard Beach, Me., May 28, 1939, and was never seen or heard from since.

No trace has been found of the flier. It is believed he died trying to make his way from a spot so isolated that his plane lay there unnoticed for two years despite extensive aerial flights over Newfoundland since the war.

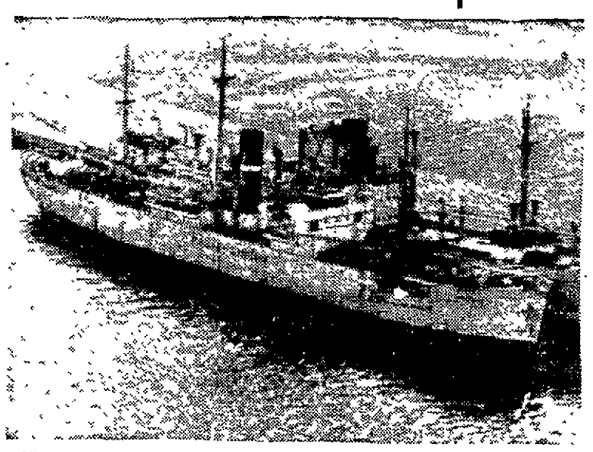
Fourth U. S.-Owned Ship Sunk



The steamship Montana, formerly the Danish ship Paula, pictured above in front, torpedoed off Iceland, is the fourth American-owned merchant ship to be sunk by belligerent action since mid-spring of this year. U. S. warships have been ordered to hunt for the submarine, and in Washington it was believed that arming of U. S. merchantmen might be the next step of this country.

Tax Payments Heavy, County Budgets Left Almost Intact

For the first time in recent years, Richland county's cities, villages, and school districts are going to get virtually all the operating funds they requested in their budgets for 1942, Deputy County Auditor Arthur S. Beck said today.

Bigger tax collections in the past two years have made more funds available, while most of the tax districts have been reasonable in their requests for operating funds, Beck said.

The city of Mansfield will receive all but $9,000 of the $364,000 requested for general fund purposes next year, and the city's schools will be reduced only $5,500. The schools requested $604,000 and will receive $598,500.

Shelby asked for $72,800 and will get all but $800 of it, Beck said. The Shelby schools and Madison township trustees will receive everything they requested. The Shelby schools sought $116,000 and the Madison township trustees, $15,000.

Unless a three-mill operating levy for Madison township schools is renewed by voters in November, the school district will be hard-pressed for funds next year, the auditor's figures showed.

The Madison board asked for $89,700 for the schools in 1942, but only $65,008 is available for the year, Beck pointed out. The levy, which expires this year, will make up most of the difference if it is approved, he said.

LAMBS 'BLITZ' NEW YORK AREA

Amateur Shepherds Say Meat's Easier To Sell Than Catch.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Twenty meat salesmen admitted today that selling lamb was far more desirable than rounding it up.

A shipment of 250 lambs being driven off barges by professional shepherds broke away and roamed blitz-style through New York's traffic, tieing it up in knots. A hurry call was sent for 20 salesmen from a nearby wholesale butcher and with the aid of police the round-up got under way.

Amid much puffing on the part of the amateur shepherds and bleating by the scampering lambs, the straying animals were ultimately corraled.

HITS REPORTS

Hull Says Jap Agreement Not Yet Reached In Talks.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Denying reports that an agreement in principle has been reached between the United States and Japan on an understanding in the Pacific, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today said the exploratory talks with the Nippon empire have not yet reached the point of determining whether negotiations are feasible.

Emphasizing that there is nothing new in the situation, Hull said the exploratory talks which are under way are based on the theory of ascertaining whether negotiations would be feasible. That point, he added, has not yet been reached.

Further doubt was cast on the possibility of any immediate negotiations with Japan for an agreement by the fact that Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, state department political adviser on far eastern affairs, has left on a two-weeks' vacation.

MILK PRICE TO ADVANCE CENT IN MANSFIELD

Increase to 13 Cents a Quart To Be Third Boost For City In Year.

The price of milk in Mansfield will go up one cent a quart to 13 cents next Tuesday, marking the third one-cent price boost in the past year.

The pint price will remain at seven cents, but coffee cream will increase from 12 to 13 cents per half pint.

Announcement of the increase, which is in line with the rising cost of other food products, was made by Dale Dohner, manager of the North Central Ohio Cooperative Dairy Sales association.

He explained that the increase will affect all dairies in the city. The price boost was made necessary, he said, by the huge government demand for condensed and evaporated milk to send to Great Britain.

Condensed milk plants are buying great quantities of raw milk and paying high prices for it in direct competition with local retailers who must increase their prices to obtain an adequate supply from farmers in this area, Dohner pointed out.

Milk plants producing canned products for the government are paying farmers $2.40 per hundred pounds now for their milk as compared with $1.50 per hundred a year ago, he said.

Retailers in this area have attempted to keep pace with the increasing market by raising their prices and paying the farmer more for the raw milk, it was explained.

The retail milk price in Mansfield was increased from 10 to 11 cents a quart about a year ago. Last June 1 another cent was added.

The majority of farmer-producers in the Mansfield area belong to the North Central Cooperative Dairy Sales association which is headed by A. L. Lockhart of Lexington.

Nearly 150 farmer representatives appeared at the rally. They voted unanimously in favor of a resolution that called for a refusal to comply with any wheat quota orders.

STORE LOOTED

Main Street Establishment Burglarized; Check Loss.

Employes of the Brooks Quality apparel shop, 84 North Main street, were taking an inventory of their stock today to determine their loss in a burglary of the store Thursday night.

The burglary was discovered late yesterday when one of the employes entered the storeroom on the second floor.

F. D. Dewoody, manager, told police that he could find nothing missing from the first floor of the store but that an inventory of the upper story must be made before the loss may be determined.

Dewoody said that the loss would run into several hundreds of dollars but that no definite estimate could be made until after the inventory.

Entrance to the store was made by removing the glass from a window, police said.

Official Spokesman Predicts War Between U. S. and Japan

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—With the official approval of the Japanese government, a well-known political spokesman warned the United States today that Nippon will "fight to the last man" if the current Washington-Tokyo negotiations prove futile.

The warning was issued by Seigo Nakano, leader of Japan's only revived political party and a former newspaper editor.

Addressing thousands of Japanese at a mass meeting, Nakano replied to the warnings to Japan issued by President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

He frankly predicted war between the United States and Japan and discounted the chances of an American-British-Japanese settlement in the Pacific.

"The Japanese," he said, "are prepared to fight to the last man if the negotiations fail."

Authorities disclosed Nakano's address had received official approval prior to its delivery.

In it he warned sharply against prolongation of the current Washington negotiations, lest Japan lose her chance to advance to the south.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — From a military viewpoint it is still too early to make even a stab at a guess on the outcome of the gigantic battle of Russia. Based upon the great distances, the lack of transportation and the numbers involved, this column was one of the few that did not predict a short campaign, crumbling the Russian defense.

Johnson

The question now seems to be one of supply. It is an axiom of modern war that no nation can long support it without access to very large steel and chemical industries. No nation without these facilities can engage in it at all unless she has piled up a tremendous reserve of weapons and munition of all kinds.

Russia certainly never had an adequate industry and the principal centers of what she had are either in Nazi hands or, as in the case of Leningrad, beleaguered. Disclosure by the ordeal of battle of the great reserves of munitions she had piled up has astonished military observers.

But what is her military supply situation now? Maybe Mr. Hopkins and his military staff know after their visit to Comrade Stalin, but few others know enough to make a good guess. My own is that it isn't so hot, and I can't see much chance of bettering it greatly. The bottlenecks in the flow of British or American aid are too narrow and the distance and requirements are too great to suppose that we can be a very effective arsenal to the Russian democracy (?).

Nevertheless, the Russian resistance has been and will for some time, remain the greatest aid for which Britain could have hoped. It is scarcely possible now for Hitler to expect any such Russian collapse this year as would enable him to call it a day on the eastern front. A large part of his strength is sure to be engaged there for months.

This brings up the real point of this piece—the recent repeated suggestions of many military commentators that he will now turn to the invasion of Britain.

Even on that the available information is sketchy, but one thing is certain, winter is the worst time to try to cross the English Channel, just as, generally speaking, it is the worst time for a western European force to get tangled up in Russia. It is true that Hitler's air attack on Britain lasted to October. It is true also that the only successful invasion of Britain in 875 years first touched her shores late in September, But the parallels are imperfect. It takes time to mount and prepare such a modern major effort and there is not enough time between now and the days when the English Channel will be much more difficult to cross and the British Isles much more easy to defend.

It seems very doubtful to me that Hitler, unless driven by crazy desperation, will make any such gamble this year.

That he will strike on some new front there can hardly be a doubt unless affairs within his hi-jacked empire, including his home front, are much more mushy than they seem.

In this connection, one wonders what is happening to the all-valiant armies of Il Duce. They are considerable. One would suppose that they could at least do garrison duty in the "conquered provinces" to relieve a few army corps of Nazi "supermen." The military scene is rendered conspicuous by their absence in most fields. It is well known that Hitler and his generals have a contempt for them, but may their present inactivity not be at least a straw in the wind to show where the next blow will fall.

Perhaps at one end or the other of the Mediterranean, but, almost inconceivably directly at the British Isles.

THREE CHARGED WITH OBTAINING MONEY FALSELY

Lucas County Grand Jury Acts On Report of $150,000 'Fake Solicitation.'

(By United Press)

TOLEDO — A Lucas county grand jury has indicted three men on six counts each of embezzlement and seven counts of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with an alleged solicitation of contributions to the Ohio State Employes Beneficial association.

In an indictment returned yesterday the grand jury named Charles J. Manney, Columbus, and Earle A. Foster and Daniel Ryan, Cleveland. The trio was accused specifically of having obtained $450 from Clarence M. Gray, Waterville highway contractor.

Dale Stump of Columbus, attorney for the association, said he believed the amount solicited since 1933 will run to approximately $150,000. He added he had received more than 40 canceled checks from highway contractors, seed and milling concerns and breweries who had "contributed" to a non-existent yearbook of the association. The checks ranged in amounts from $25 to $200.

The grand jury investigation began as a result of disclosures made at a meeting of contractors in Columbus when it was discovered that many had contributed money for advertisements for a yearbook that had not been published since 1933, William Driscoll assistant Lucas county prosecutor, said.

Foster and Ryan were arrested several weeks ago and bound over to the grand jury.

Officials of the employes association said that Manney was secretary of the association until his term expired Jan. 3, 1941, and that Foster solicited advertising for the association yearbook in 1932 and 1933. Manney formerly was state boiler inspector, was employed later at the bureau of unemployment compensation. For several years he was a member of the state employes' retirement board and later a state employes' representative on the public employes' retirement board.

Stump appeared before a meeting of highway contractors Aug. 12, shortly after Foster and Ryan were arrested; and warned contractors against making "contributions" to anyone for "advertising" in the name of the employes association.

LIVING COST, DEFENSE, AID MEASURES UP

Members Return to Washington Week Early; Action On Tax Bill Due.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Legislative problems affecting national defense, aid to Britain, agriculture and the most of living today stalled house members heading back to the capital following abrupt termination of their month's recess.

Instead of drifting back at their leisure sometime next week as anticipated, representatives are scheduled to plunge Monday into a maze of important and controversial congressional matters, including the nearly completed $3,550,000,000 tax bill and a request for an estimated $5,000,000,000 additional for lease-lend aid to embattled democracies.

While the house recess ends officially Monday, original plans called for minor, controversial business until Sept. 22. At the request of House Speaker Rayburn (D Tex., however, all members were urged to be on hand a week earlier to speed passage of the record revenue measure.

Administration leaders hoped to complete congressional action on the income measure Tuesday or Wednesday so that the treasury department could begin collecting new and higher taxes Oct. 1. Tax experts estimate that each day's delay is costing the government $3,000,000.

Acting House Speaker Woodrum (D) Va., said he expected a presidential message on additional lease lend funds early next week possibly Monday.

Other pending matters included:

1. Appointment of a successor to the late Rep. Taylor (D) Colo chairman of the powerful house appropriations committee.
2. Committee hearings on a bi that would give the president broa powers to control rents and prices.
3. Consideration of a bill to give the president authority to establish daylight saving time anywhere in the nation to conserve electrical energy for defense.
4. Congressional action on President Roosevelt's veto of the wheat and cotton marketing bill designed to "freeze" the government's loan stocks of the two products during the emergency in an effort to boost farm prices.
5. Requests for an additional $1,000,000,000 for the army an more funds for the navy.
6. Final congressional action o the "draft property" bill whic would give the president powe to requisition equipment and mate rial vital to defense. The measur was sent back to conference by th house with instructions to insist o the lower chamber's restricting amendments.

BROADWAY

Manhattan Nights.

DEPRIVED of its fabulous feminine element, I doubt if cafe society would be worth its weight in printers' ink. I mean the little girls who are made of the heavy sugar they spend on furs and furbelows, the unbibited spice with which they flavor an evening's fun and the everything nice (and not so nice) which happens to them one day and lands in the Broadway columns the day after.

Kilgallen

I mean Honeychile Wilder and Ethel Merman and Betty Allen and Brenda Frazier and Josette Daly and Peggy Hopkins Joyce. I mean any girl whose name is up in lights or in Al Bloomingdale's address book.

I mean Louise Stanley and Ethel Barrymore and Lenore Lemmon and Vivienne Segal and Carmen Miranda.

Take Carmen Miranda the other night. She was at the Astor Roof dancing with Jack Robbins, the music publisher, and she was wearing (from top to bottom) a glittering gold turban, jade earrings, a gold dinner gown and tiny gold slippers with high platform soles.

At first, she danced more or less the way other customers were dancing. Then the music grew primitive and so did she.

In less time than it takes to wag a maracas once, she and her partner had the floor to themselves, while everyone else in the room watched, fascinated.

Finally the music stopped, and so did Miranda and Robbins. But as they went to leave, they found themselves hopelessly enmeshed in a huge mob of autograph seekers.

"Heavens!" whispered Miranda in a desperate aside. "How do you suppose all these people discovered I was here?"

I never, until recently, believed that women were burlesque show addicts. I always thought one "curiosity visit" was enough for most ladies, but it has come to my attention that there are many female admirers among followers of the bump-and-grind circuit.

Only the other day, a woman sat through two shows at the Gaiety where Margie Hart is the headliner. The theater was crowded and hot and the femme fan fainted—and attendants took her outside to the theater alley, where Margie Hart herself revived the lady (a 50-year-old housewife from Newark) by applying cold towels.

When she recovered and found herself looking into Margie's eyes, the lady smiled at her anxious husband and said: "Look, it's Margie! Wasn't it worth fainting for?"

500,000 READY FOR MANEUVERS

War Games to Start Monday Under Direction of Lt. Gen. McNair.

(By Associated Press)

WITH ARMIES IN LOUISIANA —A half million men, armed with the most modern weapons from "jeeps" to dive bombers, start the nation's biggest maneuvers Monday.

The games will be three-sided. On one side, spread over most of northern Louisiana, will be the second army, from the interior of the nation. Ranged against it on the south will be the third army, with troops from Florida and Texas.

One man will have the power to tip the balance. He is Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, chief of the general headquarters staff and director of the unprecedented peacetime maneuvers.

He will say which side gets the army's hardest hitting ground forces—two armored divisions—and the new parachute troops who can drop behind army headquarters and cut their communication and supply lines.

He'll even boss the umpires who take the place of bullets by assessing losses according to fire power and vulnerability of opposing forces.

General McNair said he was particularly interested in the operation of newly-organized anti-tank forces against the nation's mechanized divisions.

"It will be their first opportunity to meet head-on in a large scale field maneuver," he added. "We are experimenting with something new in anti-tank warfare and anti-tank defense here."

The "somethig new" are 2,000-man tank destroyer groups. They will show how they plan to seek out the fighting teams of tanks, mechanized artillery and infantry, and blast them out of action.

LUKENS TO RETURN TO STAND MONDAY IN AKRON MURDER TRIAL

(By Associated Press)

AKRON—Albert B. Lukens, 58, will return to the stand Monday to continue his story of how he disposed of Miss Ruth Zwicker's body which he testified yesterday he dumped in a coal bin last Easter after the 24-year-old pianist refused him a kiss.

The former church janitor is accused of slaying the girl and burning her body in the furnace of the North Hill Methodist church where he worked.

Lukens sobbingly testified for 65 minutes yesterday about his relations with Miss Zwicker on the third floor of the church on April 12.

"Why I asked her for a kiss I will never be able to say," he said. "I took her hand and said, 'how about a kiss?'

"I thought for a moment she was going to kiss me, but the next thing I knew she gave me a slap, which I probably deserved.

"I took a step or two away and she came at me again, saying 'you will, will you?'

"She then ran against my hand and fell back as a 10-pin would.

"Falling back, her side glanced off the piano bench and then her head struck the piano and she fell to the floor."

Lukens said he left the room to meet his wife who was coming up the stairs, then returned to the girl's body in about 15 minutes.

"I raised her to a sitting position, took her by the chin and shook her head, telling her to 'snap out of it'," he testified.

"Was there any sign of life?" Lukens was asked by his attorney, E. Guy Hammond.

"None," Lukens replied.

Lukens said he picked up the body, carried it to the boiler room, and left it in the coal bin before going home to take a bath and have lunch.

Auditorium Owner Bans Wheeler Speech; fears 'Explosion.'

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—Ed McLemore, owner of the Dallas sports auditorium, declared today that he had refused to permit an address by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana at the auditorium partly because "I don't want to see the building torn down."

"We've had some pretty good riots at wrestling matches," he said, "but they would be nothing to what might happen at a rally of Wheeler supporters in this city."

McLemore said another reason for his refusing use of the auditorium is that he personally is not in agreement with Wheeler's anti-interventionist views.

Mystery Deepens In Strange Death Of Club Dancer

NEW YORK — (INS) — Mystery surrounding the strange death o Mary Barton, 20-year-old dancer deepened today with revelation o a second anonymous telephone cal received by one of the dead girl's night club associates.

The body of the dancer, who apparently died last Monday in her apartment, was found Thursday after an unknown man phoned the superintendent repeatedly to "close Miss Barton's window." An autopsy revealed she died of an overdose of sleeping potion.

Sonya Yarr, mistress of ceremonies at the night club where Miss Barton had danced, reported today that a few hours after the body was found an anonymous woman caller phoned her and asked if she knew the dancer. When Sonya replied that she did but had not seen Miss Barton for several days, the caller said she was dead and that "she took something."

The caller hung up, refusing to identify herself, despite the fact she possessed Sonya's privately listed number.

Miss Yarr recalled that Miss Barton had been acting strangely during the three days she worked at the club. She added that the dancer seemed nervous and almost fell during her routine last Saturday night. The following day, she said, Miss Barton seemed very sleepy.

REDS PURSUE GERMANS ALONG SOUTHERN FRONT

Claim Smashing of 2 Enemy Tank Corps; Leningrad And Odessa Hold.

of the central front and the village of Steolovo was recaptured after the Germans had failed in several attempts to gain the offensive.

4. Leningrad and Odessa continued to hold firm against enemy encirclement and Russian counter-attacks south of Leningrad appeared to be gaining ground.

The fighting around Kiev was described in a dispatch by Maj. Gen. K. Dobroserdov to the newspaper Izvestia, which said that the Germans sent in the 71st and 299th divisions in August to reinforce the shattered 44th and 95th divisions attacking the city.

"The Germans with this weight of numbers reached the suburbs of Stalinka and the Golseyev woods, a height commanding the city," the dispatch said. "Our troops and artillery drove them out and gave the coup de grace to the 95th and 44th divisions, also routing the 71st and 299th divisions which lost 70 per cent of their manpower."

He said the Russians continued to attack and that the German bombers had not yet been able to attack Kiev "due to valiant defense" by the Red air force which "downed 130 enemy planes."

Russian correspondents also reported from the vital central sector northeast of Gomel that the German "blitz" on Bryansk had failed despite attack with 12 divisions in a four-day battle around the ancient city of Trubchevsk.

The Russians cut off the German armored wedges and counter-attacked with tanks, infantry, artillery and aircraft to break up the offensive toward Bryansk, the dispatches said.

It was indicated that the drive was one of the big ones of the Russian counter-campaign.

Between four and six German tank divisions were smashed in the defeat of the 31st and 34th tank corps, it was estimated. The infantry divisions, which dispatches said were broken, were the German 31st, 34th and 78th divisions, numbering 45,000 men.

RAF Rains Bombs On Nazi Areas

LONDON—(U.P.)—British bombers, attacking in force, rained bombs on industrial objectives at Frankfurt, Germany, and on other targets in the great industrial Rhineland last night, the air ministry said today.

"Docks at Cherbourg also were bombed," the ministry said.

"Coastal command planes attacked the port of St. Naziare (France) and enemy ships off the Frisian islands.

"A supply ship of medium size was hit."

The RAF lost two planes in the course of the night's activities, it was admitted officially.

Stuka 'Tornado' Hits Leningrad

BERLIN—(INS)—A virtual tornado" of Stuka bombs blanketed Leningrad's defenses all day yesterday, a soldier-correspondent with the Luftwaffe reported today.

Explosions were so numerous, he wrote, that the terrain looked like "a spreading prairie fire" from above.

The great air raid on Leningrad was accompanied by new frontal attacks on land, and press reports said the last outer defenses of Leningrad now are being assaulted.

Chancellor Hitler's field GHQ announced merely that "operations on the east front are proceeding successfully."

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

TRUE stories of real people who lived fairy-tale lives are told between the covers of two new children's books now available at the Mansfield Public Library. One deals with Robert Fulton and the other concerns Hans Christian Anderson.

THE BOAT BUILDER by Clara Judson—When Robert Fulton was a little boy starting to school, he complained that his head was so full of notions that there was no room for the contents of dusty books. He may have been right, but he trained himself to develop these notions into many useful things. He planned the first sky rockets used in Lancaster, Pa. He planned one of the first submarines to carry torpedoes and he designed the first successful commercial steamboat.

THE SHOEMAKER'S SON by Constance Burnett—The story of the Ugly Duckling has long been a favorite story. It was written by Hans Christian Anderson, a shoemaker whose life was much like that of the unfortunate little swan. He lived so much in the world of dreams that he sometimes couldn't distinguish that world from the real one. Nevertheless he wrote many fine stories liked as well today as many traditional stories. This story of his life shows how he could write so well.

U. S. Destroyer Set to 'Shoot First' If Need Be

HITLER FACING CRUCIAL CHOICE

Observers Wonder If He'll Declare War on U. S. For 'Advantage.'

tactics to put American production (including delivery in Britain and Russia) behind the war against Nasism and to seize the initiative from Hitler by ordering a shooting war against Axis submarines in American waters. This is, in effect, a modernized version of convoying, of delivering the goods. In many ways, the chief executive has gone as far in support of the anti-Axis armies as the United States would have been able to go now even under a formal declaration of war.

Second, Hitler must halt the flow of goods from the "arsenal of democracy" or face the increasingly grave danger of losing a long war. This is the real crux of Hitler's problem. His methods throughout have centered on keeping America passive: reducing American aid to the Allies to a minimum.

Third, in order to attempt effectively to interrupt the flow of supplies to Britain and Russia the German submarines must now defy (as Rome and Berlin have indicated they would) the orders which Mr. Roosevelt gave the United States navy to shoot them on sight inside the vast western hemisphere zone.

Failure to invade this zone in order to attack ships en route to Britain would limit the Axis undersea boats to a comparatively small part of the Atlantic between Iceland and Scotland, where all of Britain's naval and aerial escort strength could be concentrated.

Furthermore, a question of Nazi prestige, already injured in Russia despite vast military advances, would be involved in failure to challenge Mr. Roosevelt. Hitler is not yet worried by uprisings in occupied areas but he doesn't want to see them encouraged.

Fourth, in order to defy the president's order the Axis submarines for their own safety must be prepared to shoot first if they get a chance. No naval commander would send a U-boat into a zone where hundreds of hostile ships were looking for a chance to destroy it without instructions to defend itself.

The Germans therefore faced a choice of abandoning attacks on the British-Russian supply route in the most favorable Atlantic zone or risking conflict with United States warships.

Hitler cannot show weakness by abandoning the attacks and therefore must choose whether to risk the loss of submarines without a declaration of war or to attempt to capitalize on a challenge to the United States.

line of traffic and then attempted to regain a place in the line.

The driver of the car, which failed to stop, collided with the side of another driven by R. E. Derror, Shelby - Plymouth road, badly damaging the Derror auto and causing Mrs. Derror severe cuts and bruises about the face. She also received a broken finger and lost several teeth.

The auto, which rolled over the embankment, was driven by Aaron Wellington, Mansfield R. D. 3, who told the deputies he lost control of the car in trying to avoid hitting the car which pulled out of line.

Wellington and three companions miraculously escaped serious injury when their car was practically demolished in rolling down the embankment. Riding with him were Harry Campbell, 23; Lillian Reel, 20; and Marie Luedy, 19, all of Mansfield.

Also involved in the crash was a car driven by H. E. Peterson, 256 Park avenue west, which rammed into the rear of the Derror car, deputies said.

Both the Derror and Peterson cars were damaged in the crash.

In accidents reported in the city, Miss Mary Miller, Canton, told police she had received a back injury when autos driven by John Popa, jr., Louisville, and William Smith, Mansfield R. D. 1, collided on South Park street. Miss Miller was riding with Popa.

An auto owned by Alvie Robinson, 219 Park avenue east, was badly damaged when struck by a runaway trailer. J. W. Riddle, Louisville, told police a private trailer connected to his auto, broke loose and rammed against Robinson's car near his home.

The tongue of the trailer smashed through the car's window and top.

BANS 'SLOTS' IN PRIVATE CLUBS

State Order Prohibits All Forms of Gambling Where Liquor's Sold.

mitees, he said, complained that their business was being hurt by private clubs permitting gambling, selling after hours, selling to non-members, selling on Sunday and selling package liquor to members.

Many of the Mansfield clubs maintain slot machines and permit bingo sessions to be held in their rooms. Taylor's order would crack down on this activity.

Taylor described his action as "not a crusade against private clubs but a friendly campaign against violations of the gambling and liquor laws."

The director ordered his men to "clamp down the lid on slot machines, pin ball machines" or any other gambling devices "exhibited in private clubs where liquor is sold."

Taylor's letter notified managers of fraternal organizations and other units operating private clubs that the gambling machinery must be removed by Oct. 1.

The new program was a reversal of the three-year policy of the department which has "winked" at law violations by private clubs while "cracking down" on hotels and restaurants which operated gambling machines.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates, who was asked by the department to warn other permit holders to remove pinball machines two months ago, said that he had not been notified of the new move.

RAIDS BASES

Nazi Craft Attacks Ports In Free French Islands.

LONDON—(INS)—An attack by a German raider on two British supply bases in the Society Islands was reported by the London evening Standard today in a dispatch from Shanghai.

(The French-owned Society Islands, in the South Pacific, went over to the Free French forces of Gen Charles de Gaulle after the fall of France. The United States has a naval base at Samoa, 1,500 miles to the west.)

The Standard said docking facilities, warehouses, and other buildings were seriously damaged at the two bases before the Nazi raider fled upon the arrival of a heavily-armed British supply ship.

The state division of conservation and natural resources will permit shooting on 59,500 acres of forest land in the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district, which includes the two lakes near Mansfield, and 37,000 acres of privately-owned "demonstration areas."

All lakes in the Muskingum area will be opened for duck hunting except Clendenning in Harrison county. The state-controlled waters and woodlands are in 28 counties, including Richland, Ashland, Huron, Knox, and Holmes.

TRAFFIC LIGHT'S UP; WHERE'S THE MONEY TO PAY IT NOW?

City officials today were looking for about $250 to pay for a traffic light they had erected at the intersection of Park Avenue west and West Park drive without the authorization of council.

The light was installed several weeks ago after traffic from West Fourth street had been detoured over West Park drive to Park Avenue west.

Yesterday, however, when the bill for the traffic light was presented to City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, he told Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton that he had no funds to pay for the light and returned the bill to him.

City council appropriated $900 for three new traffic lights three months ago but stipulated that the lights be placed at the intersections of Penn avenue and Fourth street, Grace and Wayne streets and Sturges and Glessner avenues.

Lights have been placed at Penn and Fourth and at Grace and Wayne but not at Glessner and Sturges. The money for the light was used instead for the light at Park avenue west and West Park drive.

Kelley said that he would be unable to pay for the light unless council makes a transfer or appropriates additional money.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1941

Drive carefully tomorrow—show that you can be trusted with a driver's license.

They say a new world is being born—apparently without the use of an anaesthetic.

In the absence of information on the subject, it may be assumed that the Cleveland Indians ate a different kind of breakfast food this year.

Railroad Strike Not Probable

WHATEVER else the people of the United States have to worry about, the likelihood of suspension of railroad service because of a general strike by employes, is not one that need cost any sleepless nights.

The series of events which culminated in President Roosevelt's appointment of a 5-man fact-finding board, after wage-increase demands had been rejected and a strike vote taken, merely follows routine procedure as set up by enactment of the railroad labor law in 1926.

This law provides machinery of mediation, disclosure of facts after unbiased investigation, and two waiting periods of 30 days each before a strike vote can be made effective.

During earlier phases of the controversy it was revealed that the average of wage increases being demanded is in excess of 40 per cent and that this would total $900,000,000 a year—which, according to railroad spokesmen, is more net income than the railroads ever earned in any year in their history.

It is highly improbable that, in the final analysis, railroad employes will contend that wages should mount to such a high total as to leave an annual operating deficit, or that no profit should be left for legitimately invested capital.

More improbable, even, is the thought that the fine type of well-paid employes of American railroads would act in unison to tie-up railway transportation in this country under normal conditions, to say nothing of the defense emergency which is now making extra calls on the railroads for help in moving essential war materials.

Don't Hurry the Wooden Bridge

FURTHER delay, rather than speedy action, now seems advisable in the matter of building a new bridge over Touby's Run on North Main street, as Mansfield has no inclination to go through the next 20 or 25 years with an antiquated wooden structure on that heavily traveled highway.

As it now appears, members of the board of county commissioners are really serious in their proposal to build a "temporary" wooden bridge instead of one that conforms to modern standards of bridge-building in cities and on highways throughout the state and country.

First impression was that this was merely another phase of political jockeying in an effort to get the state highway department to meet more, or all, of the cost of a new bridge.

The suggestion that building a permanent bridge should be delayed until the conservancy district's flood prevention plans have been carried through cannot be accepted as justification for building a wooden bridge, as there is no reason to believe that the conservancy project—if ever carried through—will involve the territory in question.

Possibly a better reason, if one is sought, is that many bridges have been destroyed by bombs during enemy invasion in other countries, and that no more bridges should be built until we see how the war comes out.

In any event, let's not hurry in sanctioning the erection of a bridge styled to the mode of a half century ago. Better continue to be inconvenienced for awhile longer by the present bottleneck.

Nazi-Jap Bond of Sympathy

THERE is, after all, a bond of sympathy between the Japanese and the Nazis. And a bond not entirely ideological, although their temperaments and aims run in the same direction. The Japs have been having a hard time in their Chinese invasion, which now grows tougher than ever; and the Nazis are having a tough time in Russia, with no present promise of easement.

Americans, while feeling a sense of relief in the Nazi troubles, are primarily concerned now with Japan's. And it is a great satisfaction to see the patient and courageous Chinese, after their incredible resistance for four years, openly taking the offensive against their invaders. In doing so they are really our allies, and in helping them with war materials and friendly encouragement we are also benefiting ourselves.

Get Ready for Winter

FALL and winter are on their way. Many parts of the country are still enjoying clear, warm days—but the months of rain, snow and cold aren't far off.

The winter season brings with it some of the greatest fire hazards—hazards which are responsible for thousands of deaths and the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property each year. Yet those hazards can be easily corrected.

Winter hazard number one is your heating plant. Before long, it will be subjected to maximum load. Any defect, any weakness, may result in a disastrous fire. That is true of furnaces, stoves, fireplaces and everything which has to do with creating and conveying heat. Don't be your own inspector—that is not an amateur's job. Call in a qualified repairman. It won't cost much—and it may save a life, a home, or a factory.

Another hazard is exposed electric wiring. Cords fray, and fixtures get out of order. Short days involve heavy use of light. Here again, a qualified expert should make repairs. And keep a stock of fuses on hand—the more or less common act of using a penny to replace a burned-out fuse is an invitation to disaster.

Now is the time to get ready for winter—not when it is here and you must use maximum heat and light.

Speaking of working wives, isn't there some unemployed single woman who could fill the office of secretary of labor just as well as Madame Perkins?

One astrologer keeps insisting that the world will come to an end next month—but surely Hitler isn't that near success.

OPM rules that all nickel and chrome trim must be kept off of bicycles—but nothing is said about squirrel tails.

This war can be won by an industrial step-up or lost by a slow-down.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Surely the most photographed newcomers to Manhattan in weeks have been the penguins who moved into the sunken gardens of Rockefeller Center, replacing the seals.

The presence of these interesting visitors reminds one of a tale they tell of life among the penguins in their polar climes, a tale that bears some scrutiny before it can be accepted at face value.

This is the tale that illustrates their crafty nature and the hard-headed realism with which they see things. Penguins are supposed to enjoy an early bath in the icy brine. They sleep on icebergs. When they awaken they huddle together closely as possible and edge gradually toward the edge of the iceberg. They keep edging inch by inch until one of the number tumbles into the ocean. If he comes up, they all dive in; if not, they move on to safer waters.

HOLLYWOOD'S ten most interesting faces? . . . In Gregg Toland's opinion their owners are Gary Cooper, Gloria Swanson, Orson Welles, Ingrid Bergman, Fredric March, Marlene Dietrich, Frank Morgan, John Qualen, Bette Davis, and Ronald Colman. . . . Being a cameraman, Gregg is a man who studies faces objectively. . . . These actors and actresses impress him most—not because their features are classic, but because to him they register character and express magnetism.

A number of night clubs in New York advertise on the radio, and their announcements are breezy little items saying there is never a cover charge, and for goodness sake get out of the hot kitchen and run over for a quiet simple meal and see a good show. . . .

That's true, there isn't a cover charge, but the announcements—pointed to weary housewives—are deceptive. . . . It's much more expensive than you think. . . . A simple little meal with a cocktail for two and a show is going to wreck a $10 banknote, even if you're very, very careful. Otherwise it'll be a $20.

LIKE the actor who accepts an invitation for a week-end visit and remains for three years, Pat Brady filled in as a doorman for one day and has been at the Waldorf-Astoria 44 years. Pat went to work the day after he landed from Ireland. . . .

Harry Carey, content in his California ranch, has sold his Long Island estate to the Dancing Hartmans. . . . There's a bootblack in Manhattan with a flannel rag adorned with pictures of Mussolini and Hitler. . . . "Let the dictators lick your boots," is his sales cry. . . .

It's a lively season the Theater Guild has lined up. . . . Helen Hayes, Katharine Hepburn, Fredric March, will successively be starred. . . . It is believed Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh" will also be placed on the winter's program. . . . Miss Hayes' play will be Maxwell Anderson's "Candle in the Wind."

Valets at the Waldorf-Astoria say guests have left exactly $13,069 in their pants pockets during the past twelve months. The largest single amount found was $1,600.

"GO NO FURTHER"

Who's Real Boss of New SPAB?

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

IF SEVEN separate ingredients refuse to mix, and it's essential to HAVE 'em mix and harmonize, will they mix upon being mixed forcibly, with the addition of an eighth ingredient to what's still to remain a seven-ingredient concoction?

Donald Nelson

We'll learn as our new emergency Supply Priorities and Allocations Board begins to get really busy.

As everybody has known, our various national offices, created to speed up production of defense and aid-the-democracies supplies, while still giving our civilian population enough to live on, haven't pulled together very effectively.

They haven't exactly quarreled but they've disagreed. The result's been that the whole joint program's been badly snarled and interfered with.

William S. Knudsen, representing management, and Sidney Hillman, representing labor, have been twin production bosses. Secretaries Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox have hollered for the requirements of the war and navy departments respectively. Leon Henderson has spoken for civilian needs, at reasonable prices. Interests have conflicted. Not much bad language has been employed, but wheels haven't turned with the velocity that the situation calls for.

Jurge Rosenman's Idea.

So President Roosevelt called on his old friend and adviser, Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, to come to Washington from New York and do some co-ordinating.

"Sammy the Rose," as F. D. R. calls him, evolved the idea of the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board, to handle matters, as a single, central authority, bossing the purchase of raw materials, expediting the processing of them, dividing up their distribution between military and civilian ultimate consumers and seeing that prices are kept within reason, thus avoiding inflation.

F. D. R. promptly created the board of executive order.

Its members include Bill Knudsen, Sidney Hillman, Henry Stimson, Frank Knox and Leon Henderson. Now, if those chaps couldn't agree as heads of separate, independent set-ups, can they agree as fellow members of one commission? That remains to be demonstrated.

But Bill, Sidney, Henry, Frank and Leon are only five in number, and this new board's announced as a seven-man aggregation.

Well, Special Presidential Lease-Lend Assistant Harry L. Hopkins is a sixth.

Plus Bill, Sidney, Henry, Frank, Leon and Harry are Vice President Henry A. Wallace and Donald M. Nelson, hitherto OPM's director of purchases.

That makes eight, according to my arithmetic; not seven.

Henry Wallace is chairman, and I suppose the chairman of a board has to be a member of it, unless he's ex-officio.

That appears to leave Don Nelson out in the cold. Yet he's the board's executive director, the guy who'll have more to do with its actual activities than all the other seven put together.

Just how an executive director rates alongside a chairman I'm uncertain, but the general surmise is that that board's real boss will be Nelson. Furthermore, he's argued all along for central control of production and distribution of supplies for the emergency. Apparently he converted "Sammy the Rose" to his idea. If so, it sounds not unlikely that "Sammy" recommended him to F. D. R. as the best real head of SPAB operations.

Nelson Over Knudsen.

Nelson a former Sears, Roebuck & Co. official, is a mild individual, who undoubtedly will do his utmost to avoid friction with SPAB's membership. In effect he's been boosted over Bill Knudsen's head, which might be expected to antagonize Bill. Bill's mild, too, though; so perhaps he won't be resentful.

But Leon Henderson isn't mild. If he disagrees with Nelson there'll be fireworks on Leon's part.

A mitigating circumstance in connection with the Nelson-Henderson situation is that Leon's a civilian supplies specialist and that Nelson's quite pro-civilian. However, it's to be remembered that Secretaries Stimson and Knox are as pro-military as they make 'em, Sidney Hillman's pro-labor and Nelson isn't particularly so. He's pro-employerdom. As such, he's no extreme New Dealer, but Harry Hopkins is—ultra. Henry Wallace might class as a neutral.

Whether or not those ingredients, forcibly shaken up together, will mix any better than previously, is a matter of guesswork.

Just Sharing

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'D "love to be a columnist." It "must be thrilling to influence so many lives." How, she wonders, do I manage to have a Great Idea daily?

The answer is, lady—I DON'T.

Frankly, I doubt if I've ever had an unique, soul-shaking notion in all my life. I'd like to, of course. I'd dote on dispensing revolutionary inspirations . . . illuminating glimpses into the eternal mysteries, which would change the entire course of human life. But I know daggoned well that such calisthenics aren't up my alley and never will be. I'm no Crystal Gazer or Delphic Oracle. The best I can do is just to mooch along with other folks, sharing their breaks, following their customary ruts and grooves. . . .

Laughing with them, when they wanted to laugh. Crying with them when they wanted to cry. Kicking myself, when I made a fool of myself, as they kicked themselves. Wondering, as they wondered, at beauty and mystery. Rebelling, as they rebelled, at ugliness, cruelty and injustice. Rejoicing, as they rejoiced, when, in spite of their ignorance, they achieved beauty and bravery.

JUST SHARING—THAT'S ALL I HAVE EVER BEEN ABLE TO DO.

Naturally, I wish I could have done more. What conceited human doesn't? And I thought, for a long time, that I would. But gradually I came to realize—with considerable outside assistance!—that I wasn't any female Solomon or Demosthenes. And instead of handling a Royal Flush, I'd have to do my best with a couple of deuces . . . as my limit.

JUST SHARING . . . that's all the talent I've ever had. And, since the original shock of discovery, that's about all I want. If I can manage to do that with my fellow citizens, it's all I ask. No great triumphs. No sublime sacrifices. Just sharing life as it comes along—in the Other Fellow and me, alike.

Sharing our infrequent triumphs . . . and our all-too-frequent shame. "Divvying up" on our victories . . . and dividing the hurt and the blame. Sometimes I wonder if there's any better way to get wise to yourself . . . and popular with your fellow man.

JUST SHARING. Taking down your back hair and letting him see you as you are, for what you're worth. It's certainly tough on the old human egotism but, as medicine for what ails us, I suspect it has all the punishments and preachments lashed to the mast.

Hard to do? Of course it is. The toughest test on earth. Yet, looking back across the years, I wonder if such sharing isn't what Christ Jesus really meant by "sacrament." Remember that scene around the table in the "upper room" where they ate their last Passover together—the Christ and the few who'd shared His brief but blessed years—His terror, tears and final glory? The low, dim place . . . the simple, peasant fare . . . the gentle smile that was to shed its healing tenderness down through the ages for all men.

"EAT . . . DRINK." He said, breaking the bread, filling the cup. "THIS IS MY BODY . . . THIS IS MY BLOOD. TAKE . . . IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME."

The broken body . . . . . the spilled blood . . . . . the shared dream. Can one man give a rarer, lovlier gift unto another?

Merited Penalty.

Ohio has given Michigan another lesson in the application of capital punishment, and it is likely that in time these demonstrations of how to dispose of a ruthless killer of his fellow creatures will produce the desired effect upon Michigan legislators.

After a fair trial in common pleas court in Toledo before Judge Herman Krueger, a slayer of two men, a wounder of two more, was found guilty and sentenced to be electrocuted this fall. The killings and the other shootings were fine examples of ruthlessness, heartlessness and cowardice.

The culprit protested that "mercy" was due him. That is always the way when such a creature is confronted with a sentence which eliminates him. The imposition of capital punishment is the only way to dispose of a certain type of criminal.—Detroit News.

One-Minute Test.

1. Was it ever the custom for men to carry parasols as well as women?
2. What is a cangue?
3. Why is the British court called the "Court of St. James?"

Words of Wisdom.

I believe in obeying the laws of the land. I practice and teach this obedience, since justice is the moral signification of law. Injustice denotes the absence of law.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Hints on Etiquette.

It is not good taste for a man to refer to his wife as "the wife," "friend wife," or "the missus." He should speak of her as "my wife," or to intimate friends by her first name. Every wife heartily resents the phrase "ball and chain," which she considers a slur, even when used jokingly.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Yes; it is only since the 18th century that women alone have carried parasols in Europe. In Asiatic countries they are used by members of both sexes.
2. A heavy wooden collar or yoke, worn around the neck by convicts in China as a punishment.
3. It is socalled from the old British palace of St. James which was long used for royal receptions, levees and drawing rooms.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Showdown on Freedom of the Seas Assured By Roosevelt's Warning

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S Thursday night talk highlighted the week's progress toward avowed belligerency by proclaiming that the United States army and navy will be used to stop Nazi "piracy" in American defensive waters.

"From now on," he said, "if German or Italian vessels of war enter the waters, the protection of which is necessary for American defense, they do so at their own peril."

The nations of the world have never been able to agree—especially in wartime—on the degree of freedom that should be granted ocean-borne commerce.

We quarreled with England over this issue before the War of 1812 and with England and Germany before we joined in the World War.

One of the first to define America's attitude was John Adams, who eventually became America's second president. In 1783 he said of the powers of Europe:

"Each one desires to maintain the exclusive dominion of some particular sea or river and yet to enjoy the liberty of navigating all others."

"For my own part," he added, "I think nature wiser than all the courts and estates in the world, and therefore I wish all her seas and rivers upon the whole globe free."

Disagreement Over War Zones.

When the U. S. first projected her lease-lend program last January a worried Reichsfuehrer Hitler warned: "Whoever believes he can help England must at all events know one thing—every ship with or without convoy that comes within range of our torpedo tubes will be torpedoed."

Previously he and Il Duce had defined the war zones in which those torpedoes could be expected.

In the face of this, President Roosevelt insisted that America was entitled to freedom of the seas in all areas outside his own proclaimed combat zones. He recalled that in the past the American navy had taken action to protect our shipping from "pirates" who ignored our right to freedom of the seas.

Vastly complicating the picture has been the fact that German-proclaimed and American-proclaimed war zones have not coincided. Two notable discrepancies are these:

Germany has included the waters around Iceland in the war zone, but America has not;

Germany has included the northern part of the Red Sea, but America has contended (since Britain seized Italy's possessions in East Africa) that the entire Red Sea is outside the combat zone.

At Home

Rail Talks: Stage Four.

It takes a long time for a railroad strike to get under way. According to the Railway Labor Act, there are four steps that must be followed: negotiation of demands; mediation by the National Railway Mediation Board; offer of arbitration and appointment of a fact-finding board by the president of the U. S. This board must report within 30 days, but the strike may not go into effect for another 30 days.

The wage dispute between 19 railroad brotherhoods, representing 1,200,000 workers, and 125 Class One railroads has entered the final stage. President Roosevelt, especially disturbed because a rail tie-up would cripple defense operations, ordered a five-man board created instead of the usual three-man board.

'Mobilization' of Farmers.

The Indiana hog raiser who became secretary of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard, is out to "mobilize" U. S. farmers for the "largest production in the history of American agriculture" — an increase of 2% in the production of 1942.

The program calls for more milk, eggs, soybeans, peanuts, corn, sugar and vegetables. Emphasis is placed on vitamin and mineral-rich products. Wickard expects Britain to want from 6 to 8% of America's produce. He said the needs for improved nutrition here and in nations "that still stand between this country and Hitler" had been canvassed. The program, however, continues the rigid control on commodities of which there are large reserves—cotton, wheat, tobacco.

Plan for Pipeline Shelved.

Testimony before the senate committee investigating the Eastern petroleum situation brought out some flavorful quotations—

Price Administrator Henderson: "You can't sink a pipeline."

Admiral Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission: "If this steel (for a Texas-east coast pipeline) is going to come from navy ships or my ships, then I'm against it."

The proposal to build a pipeline was offered by Secretary Ickes even before the East went on reduced gasoline rations.

The trouble was that pipelines call for the same kind of sheet steel used in ships and in tanks. Tuesday the new Supply Priorities and Allocations Board made its first big decision in refusing to grant steel priorities for immediate construction of a line, although this does not mean it may not be built eventually.

Morgenthau's Warning.

As a house-senate conference committee went to work on the $3,538,900,000 senate tax bill, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau warned that the nation faces an immediate threat of inflation and that to overcome it the public must spend less, save faster, be taxed more.

Both those in favor of the bill and those against it agreed that the new taxes, added to existing taxes, would hardly met federal expenditures for the fiscal year starting next July, estimated at $22,000,000,000.

Abroad

Thrown for Losses.

For 11 weeks the Red Army won surprised acclaim from many foreign observers for doing no more than slowing up the German wehrmacht. No other army had been able to do even that.

In the 12th week, just past, Russians announced they had actually turned the tables by throwing German forces for a serious loss.

The victory—which they described as their greatest to date—was said to have been won in the area of Yelnya, 40 miles east of the battered city of Smolensk on the road to Moscow.

Bad Night for Berlin.

The RAF commemorated one of Britain's most tragic nights—the opening of mass air attacks on London in 1940—by rocking Berlin with explosive and fire bombs. Britons described it as the heaviest attack yet on the German capital, said Berlin was left glowing with a series of tremendous fires.

Winces were heard from the Berlin press, which went beyond the usual practice of merely publishing communiques. In one paper a feminine eye-witness told of fright produced by the "terrible detonation of bombs." Several other continental cities were also singled out for blows by the RAF.

Spitsbergen's Visitors.

The Gulf Stream pushes back the bitter Arctic cold just enough to enable a few hundred miners and their families to live on the archipelago of Spitsbergen, about halfway between Norway and the North Pole.

Apparently when the Germans took Norway they didn't trouble to occupy the bleak islands with their rich coal deposits of an estimated 9 billion tons. Last week a British expedition, mainly Canadian, set out—ships trimmed for action.

The "invasion" developed into a hospitable welcome from 2,700 residents, about one-third Norwegian, the rest Russian. The British said the entire population was removed after the mines had been dynamited.

Seething Norway.

So defiant have Norwegians become of their German and Norwegian Nazi overlords that workers called a general strike in the Oslo area for last Thursday. Hearing of it, German Commissioner Terboven decreed a state of civil siege and reportedly ordered at least two high labor leaders shot and others jailed for long terms.

Authorities said later that striking workers soon returned to their posts.

Tribute

The owner of the semi-official Japanese newspaper Chugai Shogyo warned his countrymen against concluding that isolationist talk in the U. S. meant that American opinion was split on foreign policy.

The American method of free discussion of public issues, the totalitarian editor said, generally result in greater unity and stronger support of the national government.

In Short

Died—Sara Delano Roosevelt, 86, mother of the president, at her home in Hyde Park, N. Y., of "an acute circulatory collapse."

Labelled: Price Administrator Leon Henderson and four of his aides, as condoners of Communistic views, by Rep. Martin Dies in a letter to President Roosevelt. Henderson flatly denied the charge concerning himself, challenged Dies to furnish proof and turned over the accusations to the Civil Service Commission.

Chosen: Rosemary La Planche of Los Angeles, who just loves beef steak and spaghetti, as the new "Miss America." She said she aspires to be a movie actress and figured that the best way to catapult herself into filmdom was to win the Miss America crown.

Charged: That Germany has had the secret American-made Norden bombsight since 1938, by a U. S. attorney in opening prosecution of 16 alleged spies in a New York federal court. At the same time a witness disclosed that FBI agents had ben receiving German espionage instructions via a Long Island radio and had been sending defense information to Germany by "spies" in a slick counter-espionage move.

Spook Comedy.

One of the eeriest sets ever devised for a motion picture makes it appearance in "Hold That Ghost," the Bud Abbott-Lou Costello comedy vehicle showing at the Ohio. To all intents and purposes the layout is an elaborately furnished bedroom but by a simple mechanical trick the place suddenly becomes equipped with every type of gambling device. This all serves to confuse two ex-night club waiters who inherit the place through no efforts of their own. The stars are assisted by Joan Davis, Mischa Auer, the Andrews Sisters and Ted Lewis and his band in making the most of the situation.

Alaskan Drama.

Henry Fonda and Joan Bennett fight their way through Alaskan wilds in "Wild Geese Calling," tumultuous story of the great northwest, playing at the Madison. "One Night In Lisbon," the second feature is a wartime comedy featuring Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray.

Wallace Ford and Jean Parker play the honeymooners and Jed Prouty, the crusty m. e. "Doctors Don't Tell," the second picture presents the story of a physician who succumbs to the temptations to make a soft living. John Beal and Florence Rice are featured.

MISS JANE MARSHALL WEDS IN CLEVELAND

Former Mansfield Girl Becomes Bride of William J. Frasz of This City Today at Parsonage of St. Luke's Church.

A GROUP of Mansfielders motored to Cleveland today for the wedding of Miss Jane Bemis Marshall, former Mansfielder, and William J. Frasz, 82 Rowland avenue, which was performed at 11:30 a. m. in the parsonage of St. Luke's church. Father Murphy officiated at the single ring service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Marshall, 174 Park avenue west, and Mr. Frasz is the son of J. P. Frasz, 326 West Sixth street.

For her wedding the bride was attired in a floor length gown of powder blue jersey made shirt-waist style with a pleated skirt and full sleeves with fitted wrist bands. She wore a flowered hat covered with a blue shoulder length veil. Her colonial bouquet was of white gladioli centered with a white orchid. She approached the improvised altar which was decorated with beauty baskets of gladioli and two seven branch candelabra on the arm of her father, E. L. Marshall.

Mrs. Marvin Grabler, sister of the bridegroom, served as the bride's matron of honor. She was attired in a royal blue jersey floor length gown made similar to that of the bride's. Her powder blue hat was topped with flowers and a blue shoulder length veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white gladioli. Marvin Grabler was best man for the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served members of the immediate families and a few close friends at the Pine Tree Inn near Cleveland. The table was decorated with garden flowers and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. Mr. and Mrs. Frasz are now on a trip through Michigan. For traveling the bride wore a blue tailored suit with navy accessories and a white orchid. They will be at home Sept. 22 at 14710 Lorain avenue, Cleveland.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Forbes Varnish and Paint company in Cleveland. She also attended Ohio university at Athens. Mr. Frasz is a graduate of St. Peter's high school and is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Marriage Vows Exchanged At Methodist Church

Palms and baskets of mixed garden flowers in the delicate pastel shades formed a pretty background for the wedding service for Miss Ruth E. Bates, South Foster street, and Paul Wesley Palmer of Ontario, Friday at 11 o'clock. The nuptials were read by Rev. L. C. Watters before the altar of the Free Methodist church. Friends and relatives witnessed the single ring ceremony.

Attending her was Miss Dorothy June Palmer, sister of the bridegroom, who wore a brown crepe frock with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

Palmer, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a black and white crepe frock with her accessories in corresponding shades. She wore a corsage similar to Mrs. Young's.

Russell DeVore of Ontario served as best man for Mr. Palmer. Ushers were Charles Dille jr., uncle of the bridegroom, and Gerald Palmer, a brother.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"This morning," I answered, and added, with a wry look at my wrist watch, "in not very many hours now. Dicky will leave the train, telephone me and, when I have given him the latest developments here, go to the Brixton home, have breakfast, collect Carolyn—and Ronald—and start for Weirhampton."

"What time will his train get to —what's the name of the place?" My father impatiently voiced the two questions in one.

"Dalemont, about seven o'clock," I answered, and he involuntarily glanced at his own watch, although I was sure he knew almost to the second what time it was.

"I think I shall be back here before he telephones," he said. "If I am not, tell him to call you again in half an hour, unless he hears from me before then. Also get from him the number of the telephone he is using, and tell him to stay at it until I contact him."

Spencer Encouraged.

My eyes strayed to the code book and the flimsy sheets taken from it, together with the two sheets of blank paper which Mary had salvaged from the packet the gangster had slipped to Stephen Redfield. My father interpreted the glance.

"A very good piece of deduction, daughter," he said. "I asked Mary to show it all to me, and with what she has told me about Stephen Redfield, I am much heartened. I have many more threads in my hands than I would have believed it possible to have when I came into this room."

The thought of the flimsy paper with its queer characters, which I had secreted, suddenly weighed guiltily upon me. I knew that I had no right to keep knowledge of it from my father.

Mary Understands.

"Father," I said with sudden resolution, "will you please come into the other room with me for a second?"

I was facing both my father and Mary as I spoke, and while the surprise in my father's face held a tinge of impatience, Mary's face, after the first flashing instant, held comprehension. That she knew I had repented secreting the piece of paper, and pledging her to secrecy about it, I was sure.

"You know that time presses?" my father said.

"Yes, I know, and I shall keep you only for necessary seconds," I told him. Without further protest, he then followed me into the bedroom.

I closed the door after me, and going straight to my overnight bag, unlocked it and my writing portfolio, took the piece of flimsy from them, unfolded it and put it into my father's hand.

"I kept this back from the papers Mary took from Stephen Redfield," I told him. "There were two others, blank sheets."

"Which I have not yet had time to test for invisible ink," he said. "May I ask the reason for your action?"

His voice held something as near displeasure as I ever had heard from him, but when I had told him as briefly as possible the reason for my action, his head went up and his nostrils dilated as if, I told myself, he were an old fire horse sniffing a blaze from an unexpected quarter.

"You are sure Jack Bickett drew those characters?" he asked.

"Beyond any doubt," I said.

"Then that is all I need to know now," he said, "and it certainly fits in."

He handed the paper back to me and put his hand upon my shoulder.

Asks Madge to See "Dizzy."

"This will be one of your tasks," he said, "one which you can do better than I. Get in touch with this professor as soon as you can, and find out what this sheet says, then get that information to me as soon as possible. Now let us get back to Mary, so that you both may know what you have to do."

He opened the door and stepped aside. With an immeasurably lightened heart I preceded him into the living room, and he at once began to give crisp directions to Mary and me.

"Please take down this telephone number and these names, Mary," he said. When she had obeyed him, he turned to me.

"Get one of these men on that telephone, Margaret," he said, "calling them in the order named. If one is absent take the next, and so on. Give my name and authority, and tell the first one you reach to have two good men at the Dalemont railroad station tomorrow morning when the train from New York gets in."

CHAPTER XXX

Gay had become so much a part of the peaceful, charming life at Pennyhaven that sometimes it seemed to her she must have been there all her life.

Curt came home more frequently to dine, and the house rang with the laughter of Penny and her father and the companion who seemed not at all a paid member of the family but someone they could not do without.

Penny had gained several pounds and her cheeks were pink with good health and happiness. Gay had decided it was unfair to leave the braces on Penny's teeth any longer if they could be removed and the dentist had taken them off. To their delight the crookedness had been corrected and the small teeth were straight and shining.

But nothing had given Penny quite the happiness that she got from her black, shimmering curls. Gay did not believe the average child of twelve should be permitted to have a permanent wave, but since Penny yearned so deeply to get away from her pigtails, and Gay felt it would help Penny [illegible] took her [illegible]

With the addition of fluffy curls to the colors Penny had in her new self [illegible] Pennyhaven and [illegible] Penny's [illegible] eyes held a challenging [illegible] told any small, well-dressed friend she met that she guessed she didn't look so bad herself.

It hadn't been easy for Curt De Witt to give up the idea that April Lind would marry him. If it hadn't been for Gay's tact and sympathy and companionship it might have been a great deal harder. Gradually the hurt began to ease and he told himself that perhaps it was all for the best that April was to remarry her husband. Since she loved him, and Hill loved her, April's marriage to anyone else would cause too much unhappiness all around.

Since Kenny's happiness depended upon them both, the child was much better off without a stepfather. It was Gay who had helped Curt over the most difficult times. Coming home to see Penny so full of life and laughter had given him a new lease on life. He had always regretted that even with all his money, he could not give the little girl the one thing that could make her happy; some one who would be a real mother to her.

Penny seemed to have found in Gay's companionship everything to fill that need. Gay too thrived on life at Pennyhaven and grew more beautiful than ever as the pleasantly exciting days wore on.

One evening when Penny waved goodbye to Gay and her father as they were going to the movies, she was suddenly smitten with a wonderful idea. Suppose, suppose her father and Miss Lorraine fell in love! If they did, and got married, that would make Miss Lorraine her mother.

Penny was so thunderstruck with the possibilities of such a thing happening that she sat down on the front lawn and gave the matter several minutes of deep thought. Penny decided something had to be done about it. At least she meant to find out how Miss Lorraine and her father felt about each other.

The next day quite innocently Penny looked up from a little rug she was weaving and asked Gay:

"Do you like my father?"

Gay said quickly, smiling: "Do I like your father? Aren't you putting it a little mildly, darling? I love your father. He is one of the best friends I've ever had. You should be very proud of him, Penny. He is one of the finest men that ever lived."

That left no doubt in Penny's mind but her father stood as high as possible in Miss Lorraine's opinion. The girl went on with her weaving a moment, then said calmly with the innocence of a lamb:

"Don't you think he'd make a perfect husband for some woman?"

Gay looked amused, nodding her head.

"I should think a man like your father would make a perfect husband."

"I never could understand my mother," Penny sighed. "How she could go away from my father and marry all those silly men. I guess she just didn't appreciate him. I'll bet she's sorry."

"I'm sure she is," Gay wanted to change the subject. "How are you coming along with your rug?"

"Fine." Penny held it up for inspection. "I think my father is falling in love with somebody," the child loked at her rug closely.

Gay assumed Penny had sensed that Curt was in love with April. She said guardedly:

"That would be nice for him, wouldn't? I think we've been in the house long enough, dear. Shall we go for a walk?"

Penny got up, feeling she had accomplished a great deal for one day. When her father came home she followed him to his room, settling herself on the arm of his chair when he sat down to relax a few moments with a cocktail before taking a shower and changing his clothes for dinner.

"Daddy," Penny snuggled close to him, kissing his cheek, "Do you like Miss Lorraine?"

"Like her?" Curt smiled. "Why I don't know how we ever got along without her around here. Do you? Gay is one of the most wonderful women who ever lived, darling. You're a very lucky girl."

Penny smiled to herself. Again looking the picture of innocence she sighed:

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if Miss Lorraine had a nice husband. She's so beautiful and she loves children so much. It would be a shame if she had to be an old maid, wouldn't it, Daddy?"

Curt hugged his daughter, amused: "Bless you, Penny. Gay wouldn't have to be an old maid. If she did happen to be, it would be from choice. Almost any man would be happy to have a wife like Gay."

"Any man?" Penny put her warm little cheek to his. "Does that mean you too, Daddy?"

Curt De Witt stiffened. Penny leaned back and looked at him, her big dark eyes filled with questioning.

"Would you marry her, Daddy, if she loved you? Would you?"

Curt said strangely: "Penny—what does all this mean?"

Penny's eyes filled. She buried her face in her father's shoulder and said in a choked little voice:

"Oh, Daddy, I love her so! I'm afraid if you don't marry her she'll marry somebody else and leave us some day, and I'd be so unhappy without her. You—you'd make such a lovely couple."

Curt De Witt held his child closely, his heart a storm of emotions. Marry Gay! Why of course! That was the answer to what had been the matter with him for weeks. He had been falling in love with Gay.

Then he was smitten with the fear that Gay might not feel the same way about him. Suppose because he had been in love with April she would refuse. There was a long silence, while Penny waited tensely for her father to speak. Finally he said gently:

"Would it make you very happy to have Gay for your mother, darling?"

"Oh yes! I—I'd die with happiness, Daddy. Oh, yes!"

Curt kissed her: "Then we'll see if she'll have us, Penny. I'll ask her tonight after dinner. But you mustn't be too disappointed if she refuses. Gay has a lot of pride, you know."

Penny cried joyfully:

"Oh no she won't, Daddy! She loves you with all her heart. I know. I can tell. I'm psychic about those kind of things. You'll see!"

A week later April came home from the hospital, and Dr. Malcolm had listed another medical miracle on his records to puzzle over. April Lind Hillyer had put her feet on the floor six days after the cast had been removed from her leg, and taken three steps.

For a while she would spend most of her time in a wheel chair. But she was to be permitted to try every day until she was able to take the walk to the altar that had been the goal in her heart for so long.

Dr. Malcolm had shaken his white head, perplexed, and said wonderingly:

"I don't understand it. It's incredible!"

But April had smiled dazedly and reminded him:

"Oh but you see I had to walk. So much happiness depended upon it—Hill's and Kenny's and mine. I had to."

When Gay learned that Hill and April were to be married the first of September as she and Curt had planned, she decided the most wonderful wedding in the world would be a double one at Pennyhaven. A quiet affair with only the immediate families present. Curt agreed with her.

April couldn't understand why she hadn't realized all along that Gay was meant for Curt, and not herself. It was all so very clear now. Of course Gay had been in love with him for months, but would have gone on hiding her feelings for the rest of her life because April was her best friend.

The night before the double wedding, Hill moved his belongings from the room across the street back to his old home. April, who still walked slowly and painfully, but was growing more certain of herself every day, helped him put them back in their old places.

There was his comb and military brushes and other toilet things back on the chifferobe, and his pajamas and robe hanging on the bathroom door. Large bedroom slippers snuggled beside her small ones just inside the closet door.

Kenny watched all the strange goings on with blue eyes that danced with excitement and joy. It was a little hard to understand, but tomorrow Mommy and Daddy weren't going to be decorced any more.

Tomorrow night his beloved Daddy was coming home to sleep in his own room, beside Mommy. Mommy had said so.

Only one thing puzzled Kenny. Mommy wasn't going to be a radio star anymore. She was going to be a clinging vine. What was a clinging vine?

Well whatever it was, it must be something very nice. So he wasn't going to worry about it. Everything was all right.

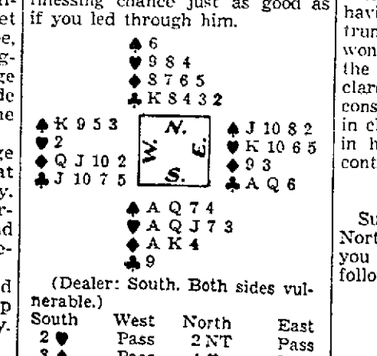
"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKE HIM HELP YOU

There are hands on which you require the help of your opponents. Sometimes a winning finesse is vital to the making of your contract, but you cannot afford to try it. You may need all of the dummy's trumps for ruffing, and so cannot lead trumps through the fellow who sits at your right and has doubled you. Perhaps you can later make him lead trumps to you, at the tag end of the play. That gives you a finessing chance just as good as if you led through him.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

West led his club 5 to the K and A, and the club Q was sent back for a ruff by South. Mrs. Harry L. Derby, who in soundness is at least equal to any other player in the social bridge circles at the Skytop club in Pennsylvania's Poconos. She planned the play perfectly. Seeing that she had three spades which might have to be ruffed, she went to work on them at once, determined to make East ultimately lead hearts to her.

The spade A was laid down to the second trick, then the spade 4 ruffed. She came to her hand with the diamond A to ruff a second spade, used the diamond K for another entry and ruffed the spade Q. Then she deliberately gave up a diamond. East discarding his club 6 and West winning. West returned a diamond. East having to ruff with one of his four trumps. He used the 6, and the 7 won. The J went to East's K, but the last two tricks were the declarer's with the A and Q. She consequently lost only one trick in clubs, one in diamonds and one in hearts and made the doubled contract right on the head.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Several hundred early birds perched on the roosts of Stadium field stands last night for a preview of Mansfield high Tygers' prospects for the coming season, and what they saw sent them away happy and prepared to return next Friday night when Coach Paul Snyder's gridders open their season with Akron West.

The early birds were Tyger fans who just couldn't wait another week to see their favorites in action. I didn't expect to see so many of them out on such a chilly night, but Tyger fans are a hardy as well as enthusiastic lot, and it'll take more than weather to keep them away from games this fall. They're sold on the 1941 Mansfield high gridiron aggregation.

Players were introduced individually to the crowd by Coach Snyder, and new rule changes effective this fall were explained by Referee Bill Keefe, and were then demonstrated by the squad.

Chief among the new rules are: one permitting forward handling of the ball in the backfield; one ruling that a punt downed by the kicking team inside its opponents' 10-yard line shall be brought back to the 20; one that brings a fourth-down incomplete pass over the goal line back to the point where the ball was put in play instead of on the 20-yard line, and one permitting unlimited substitutions.

But the fans weren't too interested in the rules. Let the officials and coaches worry about them. They wanted action. So action they got.

What was even more important to them than rule changes was a demonstration of blocking on various plays used by the Tygers.

The uninitiate discovered what the dyed-in-the-wool fan knows, that it takes more than a ball carrier to win football games.

When the holes are made and the defenders blocked out, just about anyone can carry the ball. Of course if the ball carrier is fast, elusive, and hard running he becomes a star, but he isn't shining alone out there. Ten other guys have paved his way to stardom.

The Tygers showed the fans last night that they have the blocking to carry the ball toters for substantial gains, both in the play demonstration and in the scrimmage drill that followed.

Mansfield's second team, which comes close to being on a par with the first, was unable to halt the consistent gains of the Tygers in a touchdown march of 80 yards, even though they knew the plays that were coming up. The blockers took care of 'em.

Twinkle, twinkle, little star
If we don't block, you don't go far.

PLYMOUTH MEETS MONROEVILLE CLUB

Cardinals Down Dodgers

Frick Sees Possibility Of Post-season Playoff.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

THE sensation-saturated series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals, even before it strikes its highest pitch today, has shattered every possibility of deciding the National league race until the final days of the season.

The two teams are evenly matched. Neither is great, but both are dead game and capable of carrying their neck-and-neck fight right down to the finish line two weeks from tomorrow.

In fact, the prospect of a tie is so plausible that President Ford Frick called a meeting with the two club presidents for today to map plans for a post-season playoff, just in case.

* * *

Whatever chance there was for an early settlement was wrapped up in the Dodgers, who attained a two-game lead by capturing the opening tussle Thursday, 6-4, in 11 innings. But the feat of the Cardinals in crashing back to a 4-3 triumph yesterday quickly ended this sort of speculation.

The standings now:

Brooklyn	89 50	.640
St. Louis	87 50	.635

By winning today's grand finale the Cardinals could take over first place by two percentage points, even though they only would be tied in won-lost reckoning. Yet no matter which team takes this crucial contest, the day for clinching the pennant is a long way off.

If they both win on the same days, or lose on the same days, after parting company in St. Louis, it will be no trick at all to stretch the struggle right up to Sept. 28, the season's end.

Having tried lefties, in dividing the first two games of the set, by pitching Southpaws Ernie White, Howard Pollet and Max Lanier, the Cardinal pilot turned right for the finale—to Morton Cooper, with a record of 13 victories and six defeats. Leo Durocher, Brooklyn manager, selected his ace, 19-game winner Whitlow Wyatt, who has been beaten ten times.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees, already installed as the American league champs, learned that Charley Keller had chipped a bone in his ankle and probably would be lost for the world series. His absence did not prevent them from blasting the Detroit Tigers, 8-2.

The Boston Red Sox shut out the St. Louis Browns, 5-0, on Joe Dobson's five-hit hurling, and Johnny Humphries allowed only four as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-0.

In the other national league engagements the Phillies stopped the Chicago Cubs, 5-3; Elmer Riddle pitched and batted the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-4 triumph over the New York Giants, and the Boston Braves divided another doubleheader at Pittsburgh, wining 5-0 after the Pirates tok the opener, 6-3.

It is Bob Feller's turn to pitch today, but Indian Manager Roger Peckinpaugh called on Southpaw Chubby Dean to tame the Washington Senators.

The Senators battered Jim Bagby, a right-hander, in the early innings yesterday, then went on to whip the Indians 7-4. The previous day two lefties, Al Smith and Al Milnar, took a double-header from Washington without too much trouble. If the Tribe is to get above the .500 mark it must win today's game.

And besides, tomorrow the Indianss face the Yankees in New York and Blazing Bob has a good chance of winning before a big Sunday crowd.

Arnold Anderson is scheduled to face the Tribe today in its final appearance here this season.

Husky End Opposes Pros

EUGENE HARTLEY

This 190-pound husky will be at one end tonight for the Lorain Ex-Hi's when they meet the Mansfield City News pros in the opening game of the 1941 football season at Madison high field. Hartley is a former Lorain high star who continued to shine last year with the professional team.

* * * * *

Former High School Stars Play for Pro Club Tonight

The 1941 football season for Mansfield opens tonight at Madison High field when the City News professional club tangles with the Lorain Ex-Hi's at 8:15.

Most of the pros are former Mansfield High stars, while several additions have been made to the squad by newcomers to the city who have had considerable gridiron experience

The probable starting lineup for Mansfield probably will be Lucky and Russel, ends; Toar Dials and Sturgeon, tackles; Schwarner and Zediker, guards; Lehman, center; Powell, formerly of Toledo Scott, blocking back;; Al Schwarner, fullback, Joe Popovec, former Earlham gridder, tail back, and Elmer Dials, wing back.

Ready for action will be Gaylord Bucher, all-Ohio high school guard with the Mansfield Tygers several years ago, Russ Beer, Jack Miles, Steve Popovec, Alec Radovich, Hogan and Harker Au.

Officials for tonight's game will be Myers with the Columbus Bullies last year and Ikey Fetter, former high school and professional star.

The pros have booked the Saturday night game in the hope of attracting fans employed in Mansfield stores who are now free for the evening after six o'clock.

Kent Unhurt By Induction

Although Players Called, Still Has Two Vet Squads.

(By Associated Press)

The army continues its drain on Ohio's football talent, but at least one coach—C. D. (Risy) Starn of Kent State—isn't losing any sleep because of bugle calls.

Even though two more of his stars have been ordered to report for induction this month, Starn still has nearly two full teams of experienced players from last year's squad that almost copped the Ohio conference title.

Stan Drongowski, a two-year veteran, and Ed Biasella, a Junior pass flipper, will answer the call to colors later this month, Starn said, making six men the Golden Flashes have contributed to the armed forces.

As most other Ohio colleges worried about the lure of defense jobs or depleted squads, a note of cheer was heard at Tiffin when Fenton Wolfe of Upper Sandusky was reported fit and ready for service with the Heidelberg Princes. Benched by a knee injury last season, Wolfe is showing top form in early practice sessions.

Golden-Russell Edges to Title

Golden-Russell edged into the championship of The News-Journal Women's golf league by the margin of one point over Meder Recreation according to final standings announced today.

The champions won 23 matchesand lost 13, while the runnersup turned in 22 victories against 14 losses.

* * *

Bates Candies took third place with 14 wins and 22 defeats, just one point ahead of the last-place DeMilo Beauty Salon with 13 wins and 23 losses.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK —(The Special News Service)—Well, "Our Bums" (spoken with affection) have become "Dem Bums" again and today probably will decide which will be permanent. . . . Ford Frick must have collected a few tips from a good fight referee on how to go about that speech he made to the managers and the umps before the game. . . . With Keller and Rolfe out, the Yanks won't have such a breeze against the National leaguers as their supporters had been expecting.... If the Cards win the pennant, maybe they'll decide to call the whole thing off and let the Medicos play the series. . . . The Yanks' list includes Joe DiMaggio (sore wrist), Red Ruffing (stiff neck), Bill Dickey (bruised instep) and Buddy Rosar (dizzy spells). . . . The Cards don't expect to have Enos Slaughter or Terry Moore back. . . . While the National leaguers were announcing they'd hold a meeting to decide about a playoff in case of a tie, the Yanks were announcing that all the world series box seats had been sold. . . . That's the difference between the leagues.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Some football coaches are balking on the new system of numbering their men. They're the kind of fellows who think they're doing the world a favor by living in it."

ONE-MINUTE SPORT PAGE.

Looking ahead to a second shot at Joe Louis next spring, Billy Conn is making person-to-person calls from Pittsburgh to the Bomber's Greenwood lake training base every few days to see if Joe is doing all right. . . . Billy calls Louis "Corporal" and to Joe, Conn is "Movie Actor." . . . Bob Hooey of the Ohio State Journal has laid himself open for a few touches by collecting the $25 prize for the best prediction on the American association pennant race. . . . Handout from Hardin-Simmons U. and D. W. Brantley, who likes to kick barefoot, says: "On kickoffs, his boots go 50 and 60 yards, and occasionally over the goals posts on the fly." . . . But where does the ball go, Cowboy?

RUSHING THE SEASON.

It's a bit early to come up with an extra-special football prediction, but maybe you noted that the season's first intersectional game is on tap tonight—Davis and Elkins of West Virginia vs. Catawba at Salisbury, N. C. . . . The word is that each has 15 lettermen to start with, so on a blind stab we'll pink the home team.

Oberlin Has Veteran Squad

Complete Backfield Reports From 1940.

OBERLIN —(AP)— Oberlin college observes its 50th season in intercollegiate football this year with a squad liberally sprinkled with veterans.

Coach Lysle K. Butler is blessed with a ready-made backfield from last season, but the replacement of linemen lost through graduation presents an imposing problem.

Backfield lettermen on hand to inaugurate the new season are Capt. Philip Worcester and Richard LeFevre, fullbacks; Thomas Wood, Robert Warren and William Dipman, halfbacks; and Robert Burden, quarterback.

Veteran linemen are Howard Frank, George Hagner, Otis Hall and Arthur Hirsch, guards; Robert Kelner, tackle; and Jean Cooley and Robert Wall, centers.

Worcester and Cooley are subject to early call in the selective service program, and 15 others on the 44-man squad are registered for the draft.

Two sophomores who appear destined for starting berths are Emerson Dehn of Oak Harbor, end, and Milton Fisher of New Philadelphia, tackle.

Oberlin opens the season Oct. 4 at Rochester, N. Y., against Rochester college. Other games on the schedule are: Oct. 11, Otterbein, here; Oct. 18, Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.; Oct. 25, Swarthmore, here; Nov. 1, Kenyon, here; Nov. 8, Wooster at Wooster; Nov. 15, Denison, here.

Canton, Erie Tied At One All

ERIE, Pa. (AP)— The Mid-Atlantic final playoff series stood all even today as the Canton Terriers invaded Erie for their third session with the Sailors.

The Terriers balanced things up last night with an 8-3 victory at Canton. Erie won the opener, 5-2.

Shortstop Ben Steiner, whose two errors helped Erie to victory in the first game, redeemed himself last night by thumping a homer with the bases full to lead Canton's 12-hit attack. Steiner's big blow came in the sixth inning when the Terriers chased home five runs to break a 3-3 deadlock.

* * *

The barrage drove Erie's Johnny Barrett to the showers, marking the first time this season he had failed to subdue the Terriers.

Madison Downs Galion

Rams Score 12-0 Win In Practice Tilt.

MADISON high Rams kicked off in its first practice game last night with Galion high school. Pushing over touchdowns in the first and second periods, they easily walked away with a 12-0 victory on their own field.

First trip to pay dirt was made by Ken Windsor who caught a Galion punt on his own 35 yard stripe and galloped back through the entire Galion aggregation.

Taking possession of the ball on the Galion 35 during the second frame, the Rams sliced off Galion tackles moving down to the 15 yard line.

Harold Hammer, Madison's hope for a triple threat man, Reynold Bell and Bill Wynn carried the freight in this push.

With 15 yards to go, Hammer flipped a pass to Left End Jack Fletcher for the final score.

Commenting on the secret practice tilt, Coach Al Fendrick said today that he was well pleased with the showing his Rams made.

"All the defects I saw were of a type easy to correct and showed no fundamental fault," he said.

"The boys were a little over anxious and you can't hold that against them in the first game. We lost approximately 200 yards last night through offside and man-in-motion penalties, but that's not serious now," he continued. "With a little brushing up, we're going to play some real football this term."

On the red side of the ledger, Fendrick noted that his boys would have to speed up their interference running.

"They did a swell job of protecting the passer on pass plays, but they just weren't fast enough ahead of runners and slowed up plays frequently," he concluded.

BROWN PLEASED WITH OHIO STATE PRACTICE

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The first three days of practice out at Ohio State university left Head Coach Paul Brown "very well satisfied."

"We have been giving some very hard workouts and the team has responded with a 100 per cent effort," Brown remarked. "What more can I ask?"

Paul Sarringhaus, swift sophomore halfback, wore a new set of contact lenses yesterday and said they should improve his gridiron efficiency 25 per cent.

Women's Golf Finals Today

Mrs. Betty Newell, Helen Sigel Reach Finals.

BROOKLINE, Mass—(AP)—California's chances of providing women's sport with another attractive poker-faced champion appeared bright today with its Mrs. Betty Hicks Newell engaging Helen Sigel f Philadelphia, in the 36-hole women's national amateur golf title match at the Country club.

During her march to the finals, the 20-year-old Betty has displayed the same grim determination that Helen Wills Moody did while she was reigning over the tennis courts.

Yesterday when the breaks of the game were running against her, she defeated Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., a birdie four on the 19th.

The much more spontaneous Miss Sigel won her place in the final bracket by defeating another southerner, Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, Tex., 3 and 2.

Blues, Millers To "Win Or Else"

(By Associated Press)

It was "win or else—" for Kansas City and Minneapolis this afternoon in the American association playoff series.

* * *

Each must win three straight games or be eliminated from the semi-finals. Louisville has won all three of its games with Minneapolis, and Columbus has won three of four starts against Kansas City.

* * *

The Redbirds notched their third triumph over the Blues last night, 9-2, Harry Brecheen scattering nine hits while his mates sewed up the game with two late game splurges.

NARROW PRICE CHANGES RULE ON MART TODAY

Steel Output Seen Holding Through Next Week, But Drop's Expected Soon.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Narrow price changes, mostly on the upside, ruled in today's early stock market proceedings.

Holders of automotive issues studied the announcement of Chairman Alfred P. Sloan, jr., of General Motors, that the company had defense orders totaling $1,200,000,000, of which $625,000,000 was for airplane engines, propellers, parts and equipment.

In the matter of the steels, forecasts were that next week's mill operations likely would hold around current levels but growing scarcity of pig iron and scrap was expected to curtail output soon.

Washington Sees New Move On Axis After Torpedoing Of Lumber Ship.

1,500,000 feet of lumber, consigned to the Icelandic government, there was some speculation here that she might still be afloat.

The Montana, formerly called the Paula, was one of the Danish ships which lay idle for months in American ports before being requisitioned by the maritime commission and placed in operation. The neutrality act forbids American ships and sailors from entering war zones, but her registration was transferred to Panama, a foreign crew was signed, and she was put in service carrying supplies to Britain and Britain's allies.

Speculation on the effects of the president's address continued to hold the attention of congress.

Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee commented that he "hoped there would be no shooting" as a result of the president's orders, but he added: "We do not propose to be the only targets if the shooting starts."

At Kalispell, Mont., Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), an outspoken opponent of administration foreign policies, charged in an address last night that the president in his speech "in effect said to the people of the United States: 'I am going to take you into a shooting war as far as the navy is concerned, without submitting the question to congress'."

Torpedoing Reveals Secret Marriage

NEW YORK — (INS) — Torpedoing of the American owned steamship Montana off Greenland last Thursday was followed today by revelation of the secret marriage of Niels G. Aarre, 30-year-old Danish second mate on the vessel, and Shirley Barrington, 24, a British dancer now residing in New York.

Miss Barrington told of a shipboard romance with the Danish officer 10 months ago on the liner Antonio out of Scotland. She revealed they eloped to Winmington, Del., on August 22.

"After a wonderful honeymoon of 10 days Niels sailed away again," she said. "I haven't heard from him since. I pray that he has been saved.

"This makes his second torpedoing. The other happened a year ago off Scotland. He and six others were adrift in a lifeboat for about a week before they were picked up. Two had died, one went crazy. My poor Niels—I hope he is all right."

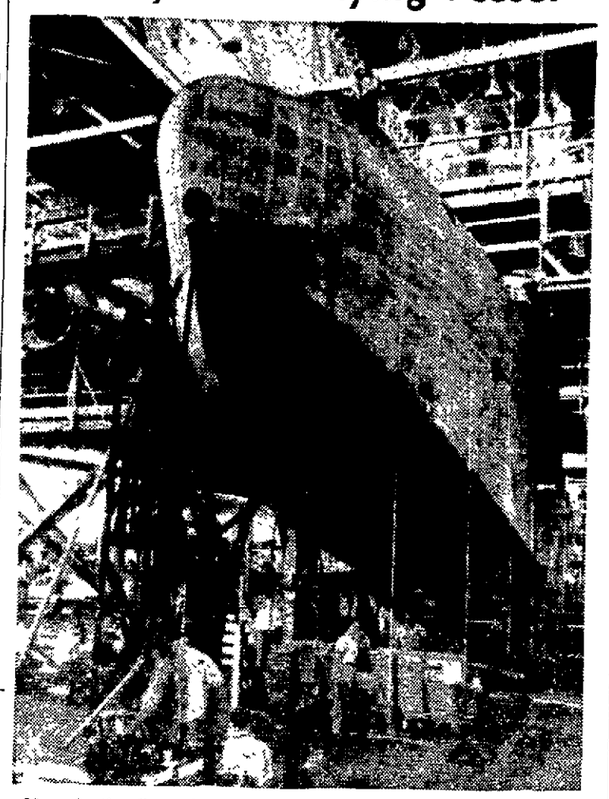
WORK HALTED

Strike Ties Up Production On Government Order.

FRANKLIN — (INS) — Work on government orders for stationery and other office supplies was tied up today when 185 workers at the Maxwell Paper company walked out in a strike for a closed shop and a 10-cent hourly wage increase.

The strike was called by John De Pew, president of the United Paper and Novelty and Toy Makers union (CIO), who claims his union represented 185 of the plant's 208 employes.

Navy's New Flying Vessel



Here is the first view of the U. S. navy's XPB2M-1 patrol bomber, the largest flying vessel in the world, now undergoing wing and hull-proof tests at the Glenn L. Martin company, Baltimore. This flying battleship, said to be capable of flying across the Atlantic and back non-stop, has a wing spread of 200 feet from tip to tip.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Scoutmasters Meet — Mansfield scoutmasters will hold a meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Boy Scout headquarters, Floyd F. Dent, scout executive, announced today.

Recover Tools—Police recovered a $75 set of tools yesterday at a Fifth street service station shortly after C. A. Seckel, Marion, reported they had been stolen from his car during Thursday night. Seckel refused to press charges against an acquaintance who had exchanged them at the station for gasoline.

Reports Purse Theft—Mrs. Curtis Coleman, Bowman street road, reported to police yesterday that a black coin purse containing $3 had been stolen from her pocketbook while she was shopping in the Kresge store. She gave police a description of a colored woman whom she said brushed against her while she was at the notions counter.

Plan Outing — The Richland County Young Democratic club will hold a corn roast and hamburger fry at 6 p. m. Tuesday at County Commissioner Guy Stewart's cottage at Mifflin lake. County Treasurer Charles Payne is chairman in charge of arrangements.

CLAIM TEN MORE SHIPS ARE SUNK

Nazis Report Further Attacks On Convoy as Retort to Roosevelt Speech.

claimed toll from the convoy, originally consisting of 40 vessels, to 31 ships.

Destruction of three more ships was credited to the Nazi air force, in addition to the wrecking of three yesterday.

Thus the two-day "bag" of the U-boats and Nazi warplanes was recorded in Berlin as 37 ships.

The Luftwaffe's latest victories included three transports of 12,000, 8,000 and 5,000 tons damaged in an attack on a convoy off Great Yarmouth. "Their loss must be reckoned with," the Germans said.

Announcements of new victories at sea were accompanied by fresh attacks on Mr. Roosevelt's "shoot on sight" radio address.

Voelkischer Beobachter, Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, told its readers:

"Roosevelt confirmed his 'shoot' order with a stack of lies.

"The speech demonstrates he has not yet reached his aim and dares not declare war."

The newspaper Lokalanzeiger said that "Roosevelt defends his 'shoot' order with a net of lies."

Diplomatic Correspondence, organ of the German foreign office, called President Roosevelt a "morbid imperialist" and accused him of falsification of facts in an effort to plunge the United States into "his adventure."

LEAVE IRAN

Nazis Bound For Internment Shout 'Sieg Heil.'

TEHERAN, Iran—(AP)—Eighty Nazis bound for internment in India and Siberia left here by train yesterday while British and Russian diplomats listened in irritation to their Sieg Heils echoing through Teheran's palatial marble depot.

Seventy-two of the group went by special train to Ahwaz, en route to India, while eight were aboard one coach of a Kazvin train with Siberia as their destination.

Allied displeasure was manifest over a series of excuses and asserted misunderstandings whereby the German legation failed twice to deliver the prisoners and finally produced only 80 of the 275 men demanded of it.

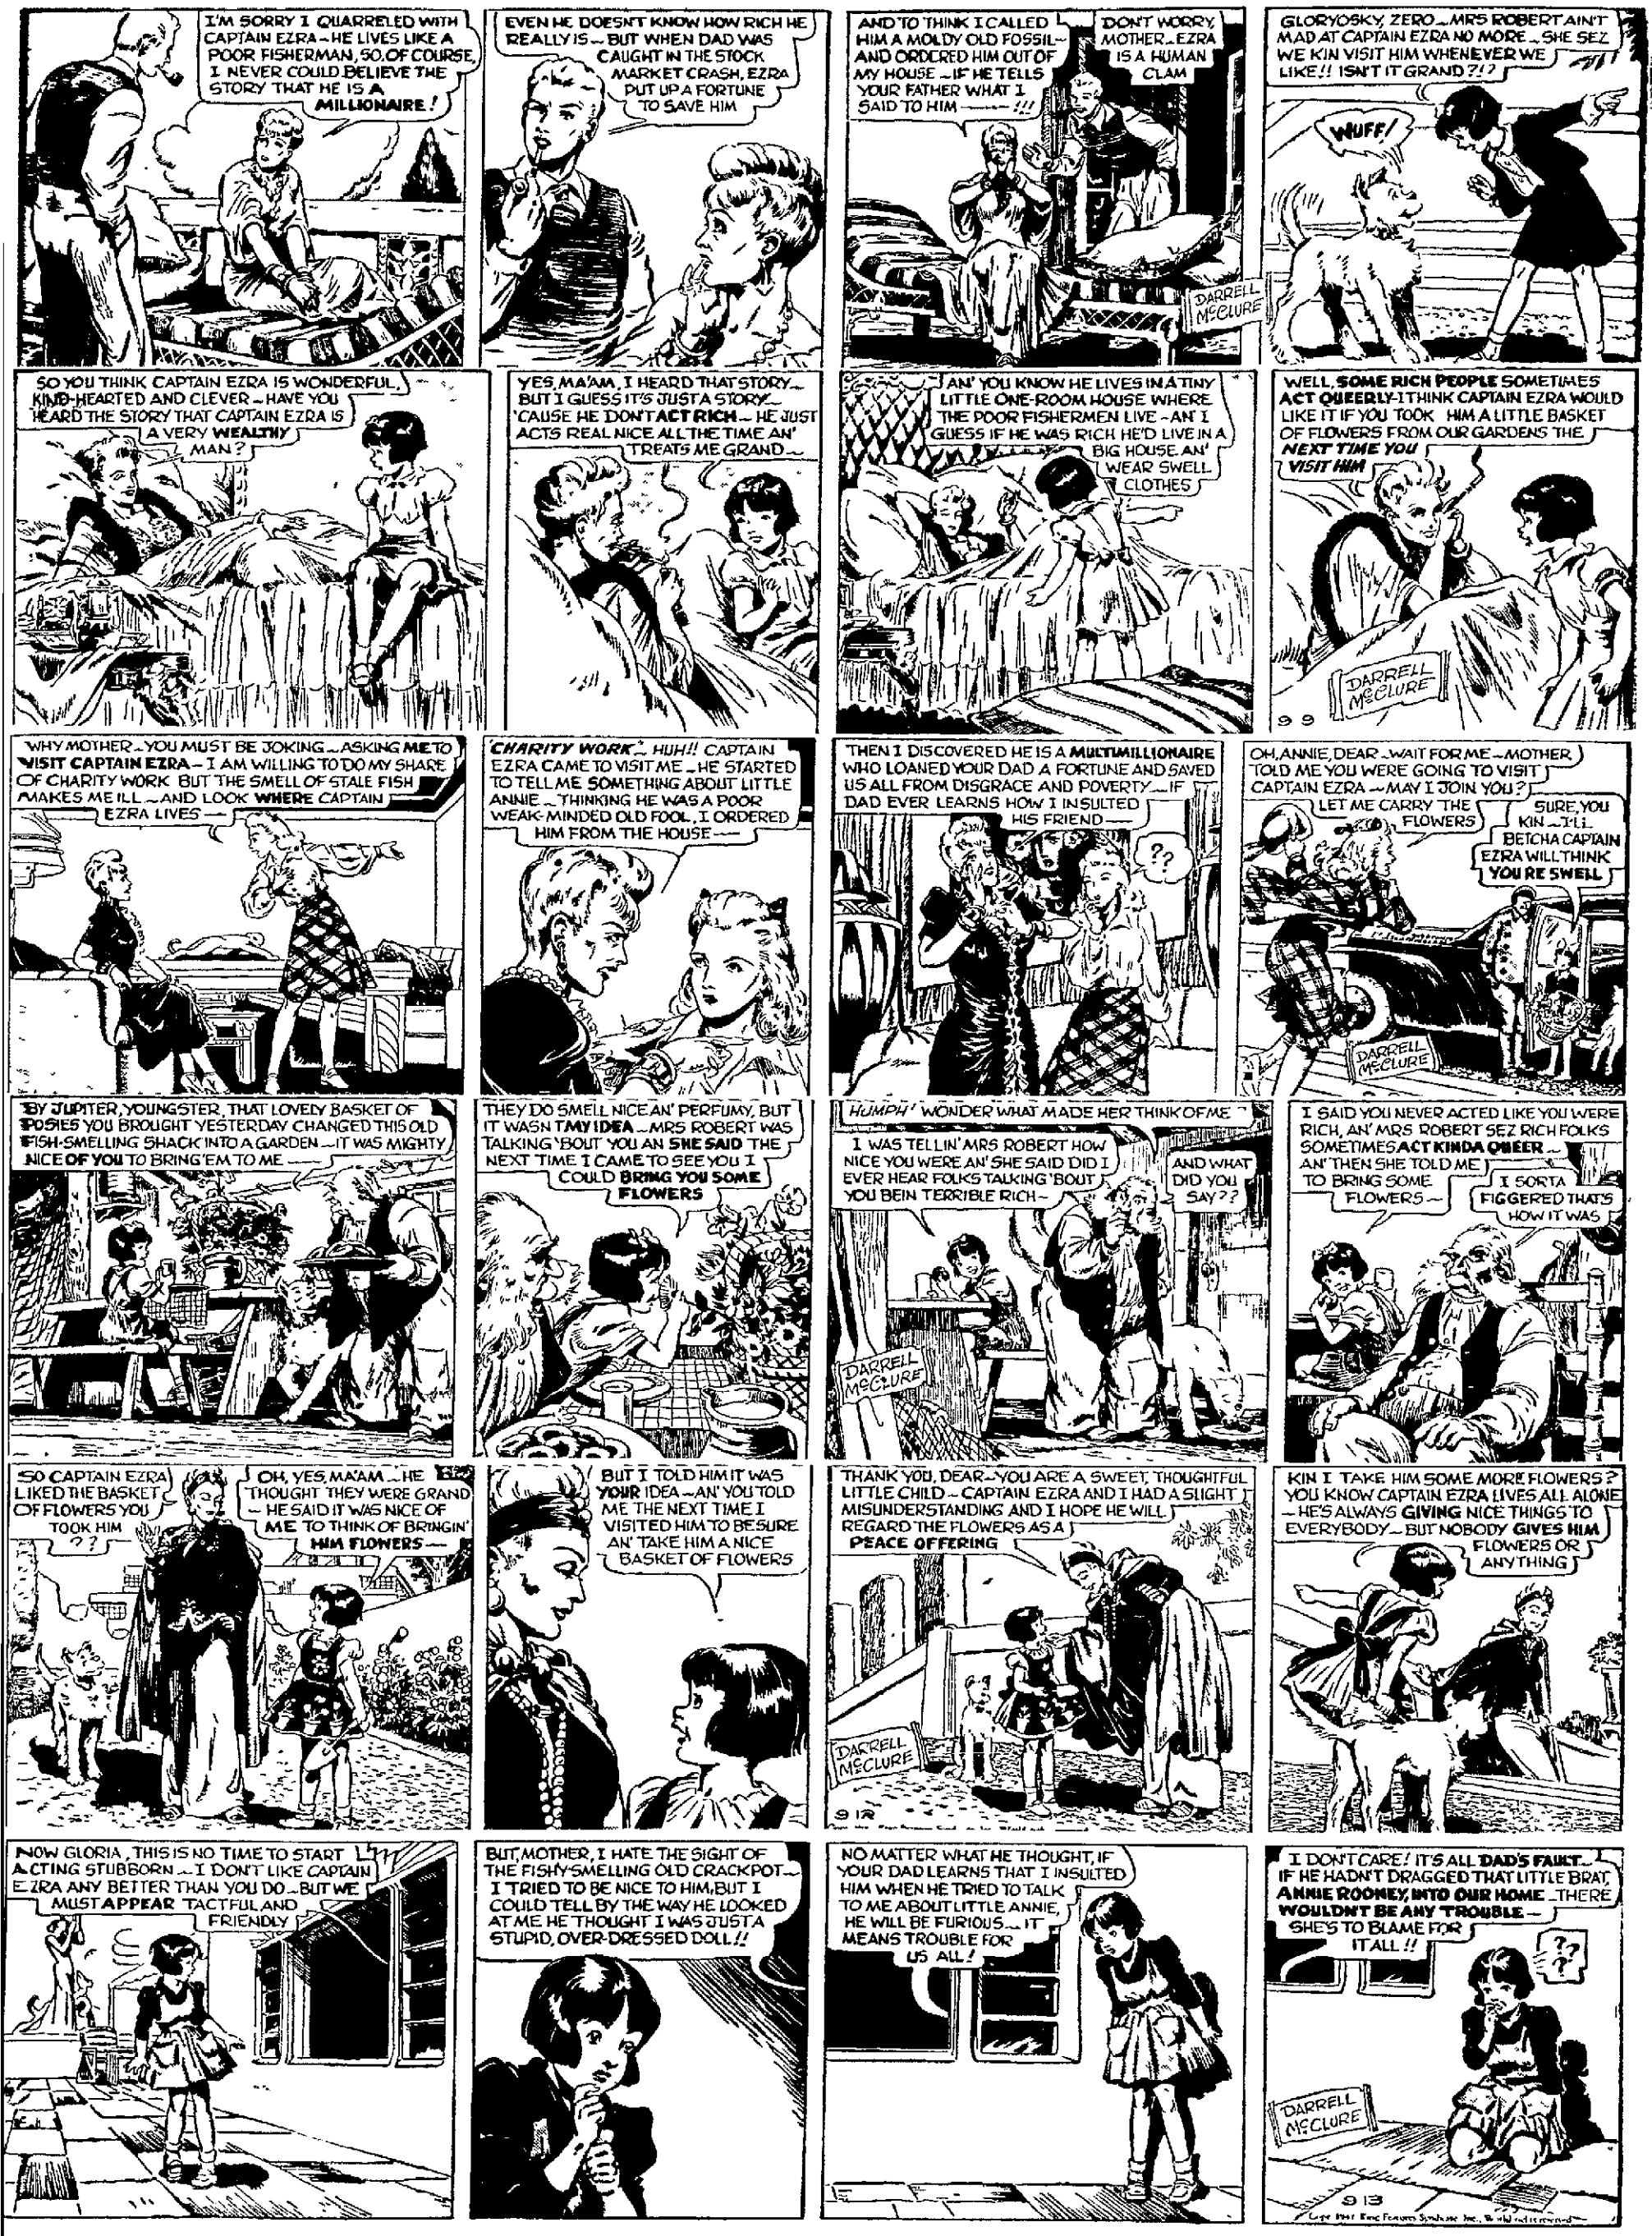
LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY



I'M SORRY I QUARRELED WITH CAPTAIN EZRA – HE LIVES LIKE A POOR FISHERMAN, SO, OF COURSE, I NEVER COULD BELIEVE THE STORY THAT HE IS A MILLIONAIRE!
EVEN HE DOESN'T KNOW HOW RICH HE REALLY IS – BUT WHEN DAD WAS CAUGHT IN THE STOCK MARKET CRASH, EZRA PUT UP A FORTUNE TO SAVE HIM
AND TO THINK I CALLED HIM A MOLDY OLD FOSSIL – AND ORDERED HIM OUT OF MY HOUSE – IF HE TELLS YOUR FATHER WHAT I SAID TO HIM ——— !!!
DON'T WORRY, MOTHER – EZRA IS A HUMAN CLAM
DARRELL McCLURE
GLORYOSKY, ZERO – MRS ROBERT AIN'T MAD AT CAPTAIN EZRA NO MORE – SHE SEZ WE KIN VISIT HIM WHENEVER WE LIKE!! ISN'T IT GRAND?!?
WUFF!
SO YOU THINK CAPTAIN EZRA IS WONDERFUL, KIND-HEARTED AND CLEVER – HAVE YOU HEARD THE STORY THAT CAPTAIN EZRA IS A VERY WEALTHY MAN?
YES, MA'AM, I HEARD THAT STORY – BUT I GUESS IT'S JUST A STORY – 'CAUSE HE DON'T ACT RICH – HE JUST ACTS REAL NICE ALL THE TIME AN' TREATS ME GRAND –
AN' YOU KNOW HE LIVES IN A TINY LITTLE ONE-ROOM HOUSE WHERE THE POOR FISHERMEN LIVE – AN' I GUESS IF HE WAS RICH HE'D LIVE IN A BIG HOUSE AN' WEAR SWELL CLOTHES
WELL, SOME RICH PEOPLE SOMETIMES ACT QUEERLY – I THINK CAPTAIN EZRA WOULD LIKE IT IF YOU TOOK HIM A LITTLE BASKET OF FLOWERS FROM OUR GARDENS THE NEXT TIME YOU VISIT HIM
DARRELL McCLURE
WHY MOTHER – YOU MUST BE JOKING – ASKING ME TO VISIT CAPTAIN EZRA – I AM WILLING TO DO MY SHARE OF CHARITY WORK BUT THE SMELL OF STALE FISH MAKES ME ILL – AND LOOK WHERE CAPTAIN EZRA LIVES ———
CHARITY WORK – HUH!! CAPTAIN EZRA CAME TO VISIT ME – HE STARTED TO TELL ME SOMETHING ABOUT LITTLE ANNIE – THINKING HE WAS A POOR WEAK-MINDED OLD FOOL, I ORDERED HIM FROM THE HOUSE ———
THEN I DISCOVERED HE IS A MULTIMILLIONAIRE WHO LOANED YOUR DAD A FORTUNE AND SAVED US ALL FROM DISGRACE AND POVERTY – IF DAD EVER LEARNS HOW I INSULTED HIS FRIEND ———
??
OH, ANNIE, DEAR – WAIT FOR ME – MOTHER TOLD ME YOU WERE GOING TO VISIT CAPTAIN EZRA – MAY I JOIN YOU?
LET ME CARRY THE FLOWERS
SURE, YOU KIN – I-I-I BETCHA CAPTAIN EZRA WILL THINK YOU'RE SWELL
DARRELL McCLURE
BY JUPITER, YOUNGSTER, THAT LOVELY BASKET OF POSIES YOU BROUGHT YESTERDAY CHANGED THIS OLD FISH-SMELLING SHACK INTO A GARDEN – IT WAS MIGHTY NICE OF YOU TO BRING 'EM TO ME ———
THEY DO SMELL NICE AN' PERFUMY, BUT IT WASN T MY IDEA – MRS ROBERT WAS TALKING 'BOUT YOU AN SHE SAID THE NEXT TIME I CAME TO SEE YOU I COULD BRING YOU SOME FLOWERS
HUMPH! WONDER WHAT MADE HER THINK OF ME
I WAS TELLIN' MRS ROBERT HOW NICE YOU WERE AN' SHE SAID DID I EVER HEAR FOLKS TALKING 'BOUT YOU BEIN TERRIBLE RICH –
AND WHAT DID YOU SAY??
DARRELL McCLURE
I SAID YOU NEVER ACTED LIKE YOU WERE RICH, AN' MRS ROBERT SEZ RICH FOLKS SOMETIMES ACT KINDA QUEER – AN' THEN SHE TOLD ME TO BRING SOME FLOWERS –
I SORTA FIGGERED THAT'S HOW IT WAS SO CAPTAIN EZRA LIKED THE BASKET OF FLOWERS YOU TOOK HIM ??
OH, YES, MA'AM – HE THOUGHT THEY WERE GRAND – HE SAID IT WAS NICE OF ME TO THINK OF BRINGIN' HIM FLOWERS ———
BUT I TOLD HIM IT WAS YOUR IDEA – AN' YOU TOLD ME THE NEXT TIME I VISITED HIM TO BE SURE AN' TAKE HIM A NICE BASKET OF FLOWERS
THANK YOU, DEAR – YOU ARE A SWEET, THOUGHTFUL LITTLE CHILD – CAPTAIN EZRA AND I HAD A SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING AND I HOPE HE WILL REGARD THE FLOWERS AS A PEACE OFFERING
DARRELL McCLURE
9 12
KIN I TAKE HIM SOME MORE FLOWERS? YOU KNOW CAPTAIN EZRA LIVES ALL ALONE – HE'S ALWAYS GIVING NICE THINGS TO EVERYBODY – BUT NOBODY GIVES HIM FLOWERS OR ANYTHING
NOW GLORIA, THIS IS NO TIME TO START ACTING STUBBORN – I DON'T LIKE CAPTAIN EZRA ANY BETTER THAN YOU DO – BUT WE MUST APPEAR TACTFUL AND FRIENDLY
BUT, MOTHER, I HATE THE SIGHT OF THE FISHY-SMELLING OLD CRACKPOT – I TRIED TO BE NICE TO HIM, BUT I COULD TELL BY THE WAY HE LOOKED AT ME HE THOUGHT I WAS JUST A STUPID, OVER-DRESSED DOLL!!
NO MATTER WHAT HE THOUGHT, IF YOUR DAD LEARNS THAT I INSULTED HIM WHEN HE TRIED TO TALK TO ME ABOUT LITTLE ANNIE, HE WILL BE FURIOUS – IT MEANS TROUBLE FOR US ALL!
I DON'T CARE! IT'S ALL DAD'S FAULT – IF HE HADN'T DRAGGED THAT LITTLE BRAT, ANNIE ROONEY, INTO OUR HOME – THERE WOULDN'T BE ANY TROUBLE – SHE'S TO BLAME FOR IT ALL!!
???

SECRET AGENT X-9

FRANKLY, X-9...DO YOU THINK WE CAN ESCAPE FROM THIS DEVIL-RIDDEN LAND IN ONE OF THEIR OWN PLANES?
MIGHT DO, HILARY...GET DOWN — THAT LOOKS LIKE THE FLIGHT COMMANDER!
SQUADRON WILL TURN IN TILL THE MOON RISES! CHANNEL PORTS WILL BE RAIDED AS USUAL AT THAT TIME!
GOOD!
THESE WAR-BIRDS FEEL PRETTY COCKY, TUCKED AWAY UNDER THESE TREES — THEY'VE POSTED ONLY ONE SENTRY TO GUARD THE PLANES! I THINK WE CAN WORK THIS!
WHEN HE TURNS AGAIN I'LL PLANT ONE ON HIS NOGGIN... YOU GET IN THE PLANE AND I'LL BE RIGHT AFTER YOU!
IT'S A DESPERATE GAMBLE, X-9 — BUT IT'S OUR ONLY HOPE!
MEL GRAFF
HILARY! HOP IN THE PLANE! QUICK!
X-9 SCRAMBLES INTO THE COCK-PIT OF THE DIVE-BOMBER...A FEW MOMENTS LATER THE MOTOR BURSTS INTO A ROAR —
ONE OF OUR PLANES!!
HERE THEY COME, X-9!
KEEP DOWN! I'M GOING TO SCATTER THAT BUNCH OF SUPERMENIACS!
MEL GRAFF
WE MADE IT, X-9!
WE'VE GOT JUST FIVE MINUTES HEAD START ON THEM... THEY'LL BE AFTER US — THOSE BABIES DON'T GIVE UP SO EASILY!
YOU SEEM TO BE WRONG, X-9! I DON'T SEE ANY SIGN OF THEM AND WE'RE NEARLY ACROSS THE CHANNEL!
SOMETHING TELLS ME THEY'VE GOT THIS ALL FIGURED OUT THEIR WAY!
LOOK! AREN'T THOSE BRITISH PLANES COMING UP TO MEET US? WE'RE SAFE!
ABOUT AS SAFE AS A BATTLEFIELD! THOSE PLANES ARE LOOKING FOR RAIDERS — AND WE'RE SHOWING ENEMY MARKINGS!
MEL GRAFF
THOSE SPITFIRES WILL RECOGNIZE THE ENEMY MARKINGS ON OUR PLANE, X-9! ISN'T THERE ANY WAY TO LET THEM KNOW WE'RE FRIENDS, BEFORE THEY KNOCK US OUT OF THE SKY?
THERE'S A WAY, BUT IT'S A LONG CHANCE!
AN ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTERY ON SHORE..
SOUNDS LIKE FRITZIE, UP THERE, IS 'AVING A BIT O' TROUBLE! 'IS MOTOR IS STOPPIN' AN' GOIN'!
LISTEN — BUP, BUP, BUP, BDUP! BUP, BUP, BUP, BDUP!
HIT'S THE VICTORY SIGNAL, 'ARRY! 'E'S ONE OF US!
IT WORKED, X-9! THE SPITFIRES AREN'T FIRING ON US!
GREAT! SOME GROUND BATTERY MUST HAVE GOTTEN OUR SIGNAL AND RADIOED THE PLANES!
MEL GRAFF
WE ARE AMERICANS! GLAD YOUR SPITFIRES DIDN'T BLAST US OUT OF THE SKY!
WE WOULD HAVE, IF WE HADN'T GOTTEN YOUR VICTORY SIGNAL! WHAT WERE YOU MEN DOING IN AN ENEMY PLANE?
IT'S THIS WAY.....
LET'S STEP INTO MY OFFICE, OLD BOY!
A SHORT TIME LATER — AT SCOTLAND YARD..
HELLO... YES, THIS IS INSPECTOR HALL!
WHAT'S THAT?... AND HE CLAIMS TO BE A MEMBER OF THE U.S. FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION? WE'D BETTER HAVE A LOOK AT HIM!
MEL GRAFF
GOOD NEWS FOR YOU, X-9! WE'VE CHECKED WITH FBI HEADQUARTERS IN WASHINGTON...
AND —?
IT'S OKAY, AS YOU AMERICAN CHAPPIES SAY! WE'RE SATISFIED, HERE AT SCOTLAND YARD, THAT YOU'RE REALLY SECRET AGENT X-9!
GOOD! HILARY HAS DECIDED TO STAY HERE IN LONDON, BUT I'VE GOT A PIECE OF UNFINISHED BUSINESS TO ATTEND TO!
THERE'S A WOMAN CALLED "THE LADY"... SHE PLAYS PEEK-A-BOO ON THE INTERNATIONAL SCENE! I'D LIKE TO MEET HER AGAIN!
THAT'S CURIOUS, SCOTLAND YARD WOULD LIKE TO MEET HER AGAIN, TOO!
WHY DON'T WE "POOL" OUR SEARCH FOR HER, X-9?
OKAY! YOUR JAILS ARE AS GOOD AS OURS! IT'S A DEAL, INSPECTOR!

TOOTS AND CASPER

TOOTS, WHILE MR. PLUNKER IS IN MEXICO, WE'LL HAVE TO TAKE IN HIS FRIEND'S SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER! I PROMISED HIM WE WOULD AND I CAN'T BREAK MY PROMISE!
I WAS SO SURE YOU'D BE WILLIN', THAT I TOLD THE BOSS IT WOULD BE OKAY! SO HE WENT AHEAD AND MADE ALL THE ARRANGEMENTS!
CASPER, MR. PLUNKER MAY RUN YOUR OFFICE, BUT I'M RUNNING THIS HOUSE! AND IT'S NOT GOING TO BE TURNED INTO A GIRLS' BOARDING-SCHOOL!
JIMMY MURPHY
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved. 9-8
BUT, GOSH, TOOTS! WHAT AM I GOIN' TO DO? IF I TURN MR. PLUNKER DOWN, I MAY BE OUT OF A JOB, AND THEN YOU'LL HAVE NO HOUSE TO RUN!
AS LONG AS YOU REFUSED TO LET THAT GIRL COME AND LIVE WITH US WHILE HER FATHER AND MR. PLUNKER ARE IN MEXICO, I HAD TO FIGURE AN "OUT" FOR MYSELF WITH THE BOSS!
WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO TELL HIM?
I COOKED UP A SWELL STORY! I'LL TELL HIM YOU HAD SUDDENLY DECIDED TO GO AWAY ON A LONG TRIP, YOURSELF!
YOU'LL BE GIVING ME IDEAS!
-SO YOU'VE SUB-LET OUR HOUSE AND I'M GOING TO LIVE IN A HOTEL, WHILE YOU'RE GONE!
THAT'S A HONEY OF AN IDEA! I WAS GOING TO RELENT AND TAKE HER IN, ANYWAY, BUT NOW IT WON'T BE NECESSARY!
JIMMY MURPHY
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved. 9-9
IT'S TOUGH LUCK, BOSS! TOOTS WOULD BE GLAD TO CHANGE HER PLANS, BUT OUR NEW TENANTS ARE COMING IN TOMORROW!
WELL, IT CAN'T BE HELPED! I'LL HAVE TO FIGURE OUT SOMETHING ELSE!
I GAVE THE BOSS THAT LINE ABOUT SUB-LETTING OUR HOUSE, SO HE WON'T PARK HIS FRIEND'S DAUGHTER ON US, WHEN THEY GO TO MEXICO!
Copr. 1941 King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
CASPER, I CAN'T THINK OF ANYBODY ELSE WITH WHOM MY FRIEND WOULD LEAVE HIS DAUGHTER WHILE WE'RE AWAY! I'LL RUN OUT TONIGHT AND TRY TO TALK YOUR TENANTS INTO GOING SOME PLACE ELSE!
NOW, I'M IN A JAM! WHAT WILL THE BOSS THINK WHEN HE FINDS OUT THE TRUTH? I'VE GOT TO GET SOMEBODY TO POSE AS OUR TENANTS, THAT'S ALL!
JIMMY MURPHY
9-10
TOOTS, WE ARE ONLY TOO GLAD TO HELP OUT CASPER! WHEN MR. PLUNKER ARRIVES, YOU AND CASPER DUCK OUT THE BACK DOOR AND WE'LL GREET HIM!
I'LL EVEN TREAT HIM TO ONE OF CASPER'S CIGARS!
Copr. 1941 King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved
9-11
THAT IS— IF YOU HAVEN'T SMOKED THEM YOURSELF!
PLUNKER WILL BE SURPRISED TO SEE THAT I'M YOUR NEW TENANT, CASPER! I'LL TELL HIM THAT TOOTS MADE US SUCH A GOOD OFFER, WE PUT OUR FURNITURE IN STORAGE AND MOVED IN HERE!
AND DON'T LET HIM TALK YOU INTO GETTING OUT!
DON'T WORRY, CASPER! THIS EASY CHAIR FEELS SO GOOD, THAT I MAY DECIDE TO MAKE QUITE A VISIT HERE WITH YOU!
JIMMY MURPHY
WELL, HOW DID EVERYTHING TURN OUT, COLONEL HOOFER?
FINE!
YOU DIDN'T LET HIM TALK YOU INTO GETTING OUT, DID YOU?
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
ER-NO-NOT EXACTLY! BUT HE WAS PRETTY ANXIOUS FOR YOU TO COME BACK, SO HIS FRIEND'S DAUGHTER WOULD HAVE A PLACE TO STAY! AND WHEN HE OFFERED ME A $100.00 BONUS TO LEAVE, WHAT COULD I DO BUT ACCEPT?
9-12
BUT, CASPER, I'M WILLING TO GIVE YOU 10%! AFTER ALL, YOU HELPED ME EARN IT!
OUCH!!
HERE'S SOMETHING ELSE YOU EARNED -ALL BY YOURSELF!
JIMMY MURPHY
WELL, IT LOOKS AS IF WE'LL HAVE TO ENTERTAIN YOUR BOSS'S FRIEND'S DAUGHTER, AFTER ALL, CASPER!
YES! MY PLAN WAS A GOOD ONE, BUT IT FIZZLED OUT!
